State Police Enter Birmingham After Negroes Increase Protest

Birmingham, Ala. (AP)— Riot-trained state police poured into this racially torn steel city Tuesday after thousands of Negroes charged in two massive waves on the downtown area.

Gov. George C. Wallace ordered 575 highway patrolmen, led by Public Safety Director Al Lingo, to supplement law enforcement authorities in Birmingham.

Eight persons were injured in various melees.

President Kennedy voiced hope in Washington Tuesday night that the people of Birmingham could solve the racial problems. White House Press Secretary Andrew Hatcher said Kennedy was awaiting word on the outcome of a meeting between Justice Department officials and Negro and white leaders in Birmingham.

Use Hoses

Fire hoses played high velocity streams of water on milling crowds at half a dozen downtown intersections before order was restored.

Meanwhile, 75 police officers were required to quiet a restive crowd of more than 1,000 Negroes in a park near desegregation headquarters.

The first mass invasion of the downtown area followed unsuccessful attempts by Negro children to be arrested. Nearly 1,000 young Negroes were arrested Monday, bringing to more than 2,400 the number of demonstrators jailed since the Rev. Martin Luther King initiated the desegregation campaign April 3.

Largest

The current campaign is by far the largest — both in the number of participants and those arrested — in the southern civil rights struggle.

Tuesday's demonstrations began shortly before noon when an estimated 500 school children marched out of the 16th Street Baptist Church, waving anti-segregation banners.

Instead of arresting them as was the pattern Monday, police grabbed the signs and dispersed the children.

Meanwhile, more than 1,000 Negroes gathered in a park across the street.

Bolted

The crowd suddenly bolted toward the downtown area, taking police by surprise.

Traffic jammed and the heart of Birmingham turned into a teeming, confused mass of spectators and demonstrators. The Negroes would form up quickly, march and sing; officers would turn them in another direction.

After about half an hour of this, the demonstration appeared to have broken up and Negroes began drifting back to the church.

Another huge crowd formed in the park and police sealed off an 8-block area to prevent a recurrence of the downtown surge.

Impatient

The crowd in the park grew impatient and the atmosphere became charged with tension. Police hustled up 4 fire trucks, including two equipped with high pressure water equipment.

Meanwhile, hundreds more Negroes suddenly reappeared in the downtown area and resumed their previous antics.

One group was herded into an alley where they stomped their feet and clapped their hands, chanting: "I wanna go to jail."

Taunted

Back at the park, the crowd taunted police: "Bring on the water . . . bring on the dogs," they yelled.

Police obliged.

Rocks flew through the air as firemen hosed down the demonstrators.

Six policemen were hurt. Extent of their injuries was not determined immediately although one man received a broken shoulder, officers said.

Two Negroes were struck by a water hose which slipped from a fireman's hand. They were not hurt seriously.

Call Dogs

Dogs were called into action at one point to put down a minor side uprising.

At the height of the activities, Wallace announced in Montgomery that he was sending in the state police at the request of Police Commissioner Eugene Connor.

As the situation worsened, Negro leaders borrowed police megaphones and urged the crowd to disperse. "Go home. You are not helping our cause," they said.

Riot Wagon

Ten carloads of highway patrolmen rolled up to the park. Birmingham police had moved in their riot wagon which is equipped with tear gas, shotguns and submarine guns.

The crowd dispersed slowly.

The Rev. Andrew Young, a desegregation leader, said the charges on the downtown area were not planned.

He said the plans were for smaller groups of placard-carrying Negroes to march in front of downtown stores.

BOOSALIS, MASON, TYRRELL, PETERSON COUNCIL VICTORS

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Dean H. Petersen was elected Lincoln's first full-time mayor by an unofficial 856-vote plurality in a record city general election vote Tuesday.

The 59-year-old Petersen led his opponent Fred A. Herrington all the way down to the final 11,224 to 10,368 count.

Petersen held only a 172 vote lead at midpoint in the tabulation of the 113 city precincts, but then pulled steadily ahead down to the wire.

Boosalis

Tyrrell

Mason

Peterson

Primary Reversed

Herrington, a former state tax commissioner, was the top runner in the April primary in a field of 6 candidates. He was nominated with a 2-1 margin over Petersen, who was a last minute entry into the mayor's race.

Retiring Mayor D. L. Tyrrell and Councilwoman Helen Boosalis were re-elected to the City Council along with John C. Mason, an attorney, and Ervin E. Peterson, a homebuilder who narrowly lost a 1961 bid for a council seat.

The 4 council winners were also top-runners in the April primary.

Unofficial vote results were Tyrrell, 12,241; Mason, 11,148; Peterson, 11,098, and Mrs. Boosalis, 10,812.

Led Primary

The primary standing was Tyrrell, Peterson, Mrs. Boosalis and Mason.

Carry-over council members are John Comstock, Lloyd Hinkley and Edward A. Becker. Councilmen Robert Fulton and Al DuTeau did not seek election from appointed terms.

Election officials said 21,871 voters went to the polls—approximately 3,600 more than turned out in the primary. A possible 172 mail ballots remain to be counted in the official canvass which will begin Friday.

The last precinct reported in at 9:55 p.m. and the unofficial final tabulation was available 30 minutes later.

Petersen 'Gratified'

Mayor-elect Petersen, surprised and pleased by the results, said he was "gratified by the response of the Lincoln voters in this election."

"I go to work for the people of Lincoln as your full-time mayor with knowledge of the great responsibility you have given me," he stated.

"I shall do everything possible to warrant your faith in me and to do the best job that I can."

Petersen said "my door will remain open at City Hall as I stated in my campaign and I shall represent all of Lincoln."

Petersen expressed a public thanks to the voters and to the hundreds of people who worked long hard weeks in his campaign.

Stressed Representation

In his campaign, Petersen has stressed the theme that he would "represent the whole city" and often jabbed at his opponent who he charged was supported "by a small, influential group."

His campaign slogan was "People Prefer Petersen."

Herrington had appeared to have strong support from downtown business interests, but had also gained endorsement by the AFL-CIO's local Committee on Political Education.

Herrington, who is executive director of the Nebraska Tax Research Council, said he was "disappointed at not being elected Lincoln's first full-time mayor."

"But I offer Dean Petersen my best wishes for his term of office and extend to him my offer of service to the people of Lincoln in any way he can find to use me," he stated.

Herrington said he now plans to take a week's vacation.

Wekesser And Magee Elected

Robert Magee and Robert Wekesser were elected to the Board of Education for 6-year terms in Tuesday's city general election.

Magee, 36-year-old businessman and father of 6 children, received 11,538 votes followed by Wekesser, 44, a bank executive, with 11,024 votes in unofficial tabulations.

Magee also had led the nominating April primary, but Wekesser climbed into the winner's circle from 3rd spot.

Unsuccessful candidates were George W. Knight, a University Place banker, and Mrs. Betty M. Harris, housewife and graduate chemist.

Magee and Wekesser will succeed Robert Venner and Mrs. Roscoe Hill, who did not seek re-election after 18 years' service on the board.

Carryover members are Arthur Danielson, Robert Ammon, James Stuart and I. J. Devoe.

Terry Will Attempt Power Bill Revival

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff Tuesday announced that he will attempt Wednesday to raise a second public power reorganization bill for floor consideration along with LB600.

LB600 was revived on a 23-17 vote. See story on Page 6.

Carpenter's effort will be made in behalf of his LB483, proposing a merger of the boards of directors of Consumers Public Power District, Loup River Public Power District and Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District.

Meanwhile, sponsors of the two remaining reorganization measures said they will wait until Wednesday to decide whether to attempt to revive their bills.

5-Area Talk

Sen. Albert Kjar of Lexington, who introduced LB476, told The Star that he will "talk to a number of senators" before making a decision.

LB476 would divide the state into 5 public power utility service area districts.

Sen. F. O. Gottschalk of Columbus, sponsor of LB481, said he will "wait and see what happens to Terry."

LB481 provides the machinery for separation of the Nebraska Public Power System partnership of Loup and Platte.

All 4 electric generation and transmission reorganization proposals were killed by the Public Works Committee.

Carpenter said he also plans to ask for immediate debate on LB125, his bill to allow municipalities to vote prior to 1972 on whether they wish to acquire retail electric distribution systems within their cities.

Carpenter pledged not to attempt to include Omaha Public Power District in any reorganization effort.

Meanwhile, Sen. Clifton Foster of Bradshaw said he is "prepared to introduce a resolution" seeking a continuing legislative study of public power problems.

What the state needs, he suggested, is a power commission similar to the Federal Power Commission.

Sen. Cecil Craft of North Platte, a cosponsor of LB476, said that he is "in a state of flux" as to his next move, but "very reluctant to have any part of that statewide legislation."

Airport Authority Re-Elected

Charles Stuart, Fredrick A. Eiche and Robert Phillips were returned to the Lincoln Airport Authority for new board terms in Tuesday's municipal election.

However, Edward W. Lebsack, a write-in candidate, came within 300 votes of unseating Phillips, whose vote-getting ability trailed that of his two colleagues.

Stuart led with 13,858 votes followed by Eiche with 12,582 and Phillips with 9,792.

Lebsack had 9,492. Another write-in nominee, Thomas L. Hornbeck, received 6,327.

Carryover Authority members are Jack Pace and Leo Beck Jr., board chairman.

Light District City Charter Change OK'd

Lincoln voters approved by a 2-to-1 margin the charter amendment authorizing the City Council to order ornamental lighting districts without petition in the downtown business district.

The approving vote was 12,928 to 6,874 on the special issue Tuesday.

The charter change will permit installation of street lighting by special assessment but without petition for districts whose outer boundaries are within a half-mile of downtown City Hall.

The proposition had been backed by Downtown Development of Lincoln and proponents of a proposed lighting district which reportedly had failed to gain petition support.

Cost of such lighting improvements would be assessed against the property benefited. No city funds would be involved.

The charter change is similar to present provisions authorizing the council to order in arterial street improvements without petition within a 1.5 mile radius of City Hall.

Outside-Of-Capitol Rent Bill To Floor

The Budget Committee Tuesday advanced to the floor of the Legislature a bill requiring agencies of state government to obtain legislative approval before renting office space outside the Capitol Building.

The bill, LB334 introduced by Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, provides that any state government agency — unless otherwise specifically authorized by law — must have both the governor's approval in writing to rent space outside the Capitol, and legislative approval.

Specifically, it requires approval by motion of the Legislature when it is in session, or unanimous approval of the executive board of the Legislative Council when the Legislature is not in session.

Salary Advance

The committee also advanced to the floor LB456 — the salary bill for the state's constitutional officers. The bill will be bracketed until action is taken on the main appropriations bill.

In other action, the committee killed 3 measures:

LB325, introduced by Sens. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff and Marvel, which would have required legislative approval of plans and cost estimates for the construction of buildings or purchase of land out of funds raised by the institutional building levy.

LB505, introduced by Sens. Cecil Craft of North Platte and Ross Rasmussen of Hooper, which provided for the transfer of certain funds from the Spanish-American War Fund to the Disabled American Veterans.

LB768, Sen. Terry Carpenter's proposal that all state cars should be painted in a manner similar to Safety Patrol cars, and equipped with revolving red lights on their rooftops, as a means of promoting highway safety.

Whodunit?—Capitol Signs Say 'For Sale'

No doubt many Nebraska citizens will be checking with their state senators Wednesday to make sure that the State Capitol is not really for sale.

Lincoln police early Wednesday morning began picking up "For Sale" signs that were placed about the 4 points of the Capitol grounds by parties or persons unknown.

Police Lt. William Satterthwaite didn't know whether he should check with members of the Unicameral or Gov. Frank B. Morrison to make doubly sure about the sale of the building before he and a reporter removed the signs.

However, because of the late hour, Satterthwaite thought it prudent to remove the signs and check with state officials later.

Whoever put up the signs did not play any favorites since each one of them carried the name of a different realtor.

Union Asks New Rubber Negotiation

Akron, Ohio (AP) — A new master agreement covering some 21,000 employes of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. received another setback Tuesday when the executive committee of United Rubber Workers Local 2 voted 6-5 to send negotiators back to the bargaining table.

It had been expected that the committee would call for a special membership meeting to reconsider Sunday's action by fewer than 10% of the 9,861 members of the big local.

The local voted 450 to 420 to reject the two-year pact reached in negotiations last month.

Lincoln Local Nay

Although a majority of the 11 Goodyear locals around the country voted to ratify the agreement, the measure failed to win support of a required majority of the membership Four locals, including the one at Lincoln, Neb., voted against the contract.

The contract agreement provides 16-cent pay increases over two years for tire makers and 13 cents an hour for non-tire workers.

With fringe benefits, the value of the contract has been estimated at 22 to 26 cents an hours. Under the old contract Goodyear workers averaged $2.97 an hour.

Light District City Charter Change OK'd

Lincoln voters approved by a 2-to-1 margin the charter amendment authorizing the City Council to order ornamental lighting districts without petition in the downtown business district.

The approving vote was 12,928 to 6,874 on the special issue Tuesday.

The charter change will permit installation of street lighting by special assessment but without petition for districts whose outer boundaries are within a half-mile of downtown City Hall.

The proposition had been backed by Downtown Development of Lincoln and proponents of a proposed lighting district which reportedly had failed to gain petition support.

Cost of such lighting improvements would be assessed against the property benefited. No city funds would be involved.

The charter change is similar to present provisions authorizing the council to order in arterial street improvements without petition within a 1.5 mile radius of City Hall.

BRITON AND RED PLEAD GUILTY

. . . Relayed Soviet Secrets To West

Moscow (AP) — A confessed British spy and a confessed Russian traitor, glaring with hate at each other, pleaded guilty in a Soviet court Tuesday to charges that they relayed Soviet secrets to the West through the U.S. and British embassies.

The Briton was Greville Wynne, 42, a businessman who has made about 8 trips to the Soviet Union. The Russian was Oleg Penkovsky, 43, a former official of the Soviet Committee for Coordination of Scientific Research.

And from far back in the audience, Wynne's wife Sheila waved to him and he smiled broadly back at her from the dock even though prison gates seem to be yawning for him.

Reservations

Wynne pleaded guilty to "active espionage" as outlined in the indictment read at the opening of the court, but insisted he held "certain reservations which I will make in my statement" later in the trial.

Penkovsky — gray, erect and looking like the colonel he used to be—pleaded guilty to high treason, without reservations.

But as the first day of the trial ended he responded to questions by his defense lawyer to try to show he had once been a good and loyal Soviet citizen.

"I never at any time doubted the correctness of the system," he shouted.

5,000 Photos

But he also testified that during the past two years he smuggled nearly 5,000 photographs of Russian documents, machinery and other things of a secret nature — to British and American intelligence agents.

Penkovsky pointed an accusing finger at American and British embassy personnel in Moscow and others in London and Paris as he told how he had turned over secret information on rockets, artillery, the Soviet economy and politics.

By his own confession he lived it up happily in Paris and London, tried on British and American uniforms with the prospect of fleeing to safety in the West. Then the ax fell and Soviet police got him. A possible sentence for his crime is death before a firing squad.

Saturday

A court attache said Tuesday night the trial will continue for 5 days, ending sometime Saturday with the sentence.

Time after time, Wynne disputed Penkovsky's testimony. He conceded he had handed packages to Penkovsky, but denied he knew they contained either instructions for espionage or film for the little German-made Minox camera that can be concealed in a vest pocket. Moreover, he insisted he did not know the packages he received from Penkovsky contained exposed film, although he admitted he turned them over to British consular officer Roderick Chisholm or to Chisholm's wife Janet. The Chisholms left Moscow several months ago.

The little court room barely a tenth the size of the one in which Francis Gary Powers was tried in 1960, was hot in an unexpectedly warm May sun and the glare of lights for movie cameras.

The Russians expect to make a show of the case, and the big evening newspaper Izvestia gave it a full page — with pictures — a rare thing for a trial here.

Like No Other

Soviet law is like no other law so Russian spectators were not surprised when Wynne said he had received a copy of the indictment only a few days ago. In turn his Soviet lawyer, Nikolai Borovik, said he first saw Wynne in prison in March. By then the British engineer and trade representative, who was arrested in Hungary in November, had spent nearly 5 months under Soviet investigation without advice even of a Soviet lawyer.

Both the indictment and Penkovsky's day of testimony indicated Wynne was primarily a courier for getting film and other secret matter out of the Soviet Union.

But Penkovsky named many others, as involved one way or another in his operations. He reeled off telephone numbers of apartments occupied by various American Embassy personnel or otherwise said he had contacts with them in passing on information.

Repeatedly

Repeatedly he was a guest at Spaso House, the American ambassador's residence, while Llewellyn Thompson was ambassador here.

It was there, he related, that he tried to pass on his latest haul of secret film to Rodney W. Carlson, of Alcester, S.D., a second secretary in the embassy who returned to the United States last December.

Apparently because so many Soviet eyes were then watching him, he couldn't make the delivery. The indictment said the film was found in his room along with an American radio transmitter, stocks of film, paper for secret writing — and a secret compartment in a desk.

Thinking 'Small' Can Reap Gains

Berlin (AP) — A lovelorn young Austrian has met and defeated the Red wall in Berlin. He did it by renting a sports car slung so low it zipped right under the last steel barrier at a crossing point.

East Berlin guards were so surprised they had no time to unlimber their tommy guns, Heinz Meixner, 20, of Linz, Austria, said Tuesday.

Behind the seat was hidden his 20-year-old East German fiancee. In the trunk of the tiny car was her 46-year-old mother. This all happened Sunday.

Join Roll

Thus Meixner joined the roll of brave men who have used bizarre methods to get people out of the Communist country to the West.

Meixner, a lathe operator, came to work in West Berlin 14 months ago. He gave this account to reporters:

He met Margarete Thurau last September in East Berlin. They became engaged.

No Hope

There was no hope of her being allowed to go to the West. Communist authorities heard of their romance and tried to pressure Meixner into going to East Berlin to live.

Instead he figured out a way of getting his fiancee and future mother-in-law to West Berlin.

After much searching of the border he decided on the bold plan of whipping a small car through the barriers at the Friedrich-Strasse crossing point for foreigners.

Faked Trouble

He searched car rental agencies until he found a small British sports car. With the windshield removed it was only 4½ feet high.

Last Sunday he drove to East Berlin and took on his human cargo, plus bricks to deflect bullets.

Didn't Stop

He showed his passport to get through the first barrier into the control zone. Instead of stopping at the customs shed he raced the red car around the slalom road barriers and under the beam.

At Checkpoint Charlie, the West Allied control point, he triumphantly released his passengers.

"Now we will get married," Meixner said happily.

GOP To Fight Ceiling Hike

. . . IN NAME OF 'FISCAL RESPONSIBILITY'

Washington (AP)—Republicans announced Tuesday that in the name of "responsible fiscal policy" they will fight to hold the national debt ceiling at its present level of $305 billion.

They took this stand in the face of Treasury estimates that the public debt will pierce the legal ceiling in 3 weeks unless Congress acts to raise it.

A bill to raise the limit temporarily to $307 billion through June 30 and $309 billion through Aug. 31 has been set for House action Thursday.

Worried

Democratic leaders, visibly worried by indications of near-solid Republican opposition and possible defections of some Democrats, hinted the bill may be put aside while efforts are made to strengthen administration forces.

The battle lines were drawn in the report on the legislation published Tuesday by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The Democratic majority quoted Treasury figures estimating the debt will reach $305.2 billion on May 29. The same figures showed that by the last week of June, when under present law the ceiling would drop to $300 billion, the debt would reach $5.3 billion above this figure. And the law now provides for a further drop to $285 billion July 1.

The Democrats said the raise they recommend is less than the Treasury asked for.

Adequate

However, a separate report by all 10 Republican members of the committee said "a debt ceiling of $305 billion is adequate (although) not comfortable for the Treasury, unless closer controls are maintained on spending."

And, they said:

"The Kennedy administration was put on notice in the last Congress that the Republican members . . . would no longer be willing to pick up the tab for the administration's profligate spending. In the face of the administration's complete disregard for responsible fiscal policy, we have no alternative but to oppose a further increase in the debt ceiling."

They said, however, they would propose an extension of the $305 billion ceiling, without the scheduled cuts.

Periodic

Raising the debt ceiling has become a periodic congressional exercise in recent years as almost uninterrupted deficits have sent the national debt higher and higher.

Every time, fiscal conservatives of both parties have denounced spending policies, but in the end a majority of Congress has always gone along with the Treasury plea that it must be allowed to borrow so as to pay the bills already incurred.

There are reasons to believe that a real fight is in the making this year. The issues of spending and the deficit have been thrust into unusual prominence by President Kennedy's tax cut proposals, which admittedly would produce bigger deficits at least temporarily, although the administration argues they would lead to budget balance by enlarging the economy.

Republicans in Congress have made spending, along with Cuban policy, the two big opposition issues.

Weak Showing

Moreover, Republicans have been stung by the weak showing, so far in the new Congress, of the long time coalition of northern Republicans and southern Democratic conservatives. On 4 key votes, a majority of the Democrats from the old Confederacy have gone along with their party colleagues, while Republicans held firm but lost.

There are devices the Treasury can use to cope with a temporary threat that the debt will go through the ceiling, but secretaries historically have considered them dangerous or at least excessively costly.

Postponement of some payments during former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's administration has been a subject of argument ever since, with critics contending the action taken to stave off a debt ceiling raise led to recession.

5 Youths Honored For Bravery And Service

Washington (AP) — President Kennedy honored 5 young Americans Tuesday for bravery and service, and said he hopes their deeds "will inspire other Americans."

Four received medals and certificates in a ceremony in the sunsplotched White House rose garden, with parents, relatives, friends and members of Congress looking on proudly.

The 5th could not be there. He died while saving a young boy on a trestle from death from an onrushing freight train.

The parents of the dead hero, John Nicholas Aramino Jr., of LeRoy, N.Y., received for him a medal for bravery and a certificate praising their son's "extraordinary decision, presence of mind and courageous action."

Kennedy pinned the gold medal, with a red, white and blue ribbon on Mrs. Aramino's coat.

Her son was 17 when he died in 1961.

The other winners of bravery medals were:

Philip Thomas Loura, 16, of South Windham, Maine, who saved two girls who had plunged through the ice on a skating pond.

Loretta Agnes Jaronik, 18, of South Bend, Ind., who ran into a burning house 3 times and rescued a 6-year-old boy.

Medals for service went to:

William Richardson Gordon Jr., 19, of Wilmington, Del., for his record as an outstanding student and worker in extra-curricular and community activities.

William Thomas Leonard, 19, New York City, who was described as a "gang leader for good" because of his work with young people.

The Young American Medals are awarded annually—these were for 1961—on the basis of selections made by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and two other Justice Department officials, with the approval of the attorney general. Nominations are made to the departmental committee by governors.

Strong Attack, Stout Defense Given Ag Plan

. . . Nebraska Dissenter Quoted

Washington (AP)—President Kennedy's proposals on production controls for both wheat and feed grain ran into blistering criticism and stout defense at a Senate hearing Tuesday.

Each side suggested congressional investigation of funds being spent by the other on a nationwide referendum coming up May 21 on proposed tough new wheat controls.

President Charles B. Shuman of the big American Farm Bureau Federation urged senators to delay action on an extension of the "voluntary" corn and livestock feed grain program, and forecast rejection of the new wheat controls by farmers later this month.

He testified that a sharp drop in prices of beef cattle and hogs this year had cost farmers and producers some $2 billion, or more than the $1.7 billion paid out by taxpayers for the corn and feed grains controls efforts on 1961 and 1962 crops.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., chairman of the Agriculture Committee, conducting the hearings on a two-year extension of the feed grains program already approved by the House, disputed most of Shuman's testimony.

And Ellender said he expects to have the feed grain bill approved by his committee later this week and through the Senate "and on the President's desk before the wheat referendum" May 21.

Ellender said a Nebraska county Farm Bureau official had telephoned and written him suggesting that the Senate committee investigate where Shuman and the national bureau are getting funds to oppose the grains controls.

He identified the dissenter as Bryce Ohmstede of Guide Rock, Neb., vice president of the Webster County Farm Bureau.

Shuman said the Farm Bureau would welcome any investigation and replied that the national organization is financed by $1 a year from its more than 1,607,000 farm family members

With some 2,700 county Farm Bureaus it is not unusual for one or two to "disagree very violently," he said, adding that Farm Bureau spending "is a mere pittance compared with the money spent by the other side"

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, later suggested that Congress should investigate how much of taxpayer money is being spent on county farmer committeemen and other government workers seeking a yes vote on the wheat controls

Shuman said the feed grains bill was being rushed through Congress "as a gimmick" to try to influence a favorable vote on stricter wheat controls.

Marking Lewis, Clark Trail OKd By House Group

Washington (AP)—A resolution to express the view of Congress that the Lewis and Clark route from St. Louis to the Pacific Northwest should be marked was approved Tuesday by a House Interior Subcommittee.

It also would express the sense of Congress that the route traversed by the two explorers in 1804-06 should be kept available "for the inspiration and enjoyment of the American people"

In addition, the resolution would express congressional desire that federal agencies act in concert to preserve and mark appropriately the route where it crosses lands they administer and assure public access to those lands.

State, counties, municipalities, and persons who own lands along the route would be invited to join in preserving, marking and assuring public access to the route.

Rep. John Kyl, R-Iowa, one of the authors of the resolution, testified the idea of a Lewis and Clark trail was fostered originally by the late J. N. Ding Darling, journalist and conservationist.

A strip almost half the continent in length would be tied together in a planned area for both preservation and recreation, he said.

New Youth Center 'Answers Need'

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Auburn—Color it happy — and that means 'most any color to this town's teenagers.

Thus, no complaints whatsoever about a recently-opened Youth Center with walls that "blend" like a brush gone wild Its young patrons are much more interested in a juke box, snack bar and games.

"Sure, some of the paint is hardly recognizable as a color, but only because we had to empty so many cans together to finish," smilingly explained Don Yates, president-elect of the sponsoring Sertomans. "The place still answers a long-felt need."

Most garish of the multi-hued quarters is a screaming-yellow stairway entrance. Donated paint offers several other interesting shades in the second-floor facility itself.

Occupying rented space of the former American Legion club, the center blossomed forth last fall with an opening-night attendance of nearly 200 This naturally has tapered off some, but high schoolers and junior high students—dividing the time—still flock in 3 nights per week.

Among Sertomans taking their twice-monthly turns as chaperones are president Lloyd Buche and project chairman Clyde Hager. The club membership is 22.

Strong Attack, Stout Defense Given Ag Plan

. . . Nebraska Dissenter Quoted

Washington (AP)—President Kennedy's proposals on production controls for both wheat and feed grain ran into blistering criticism and stout defense at a Senate hearing Tuesday.

Each side suggested congressional investigation of funds being spent by the other on a nationwide referendum coming up May 21 on proposed tough new wheat controls.

President Charles B. Shuman of the big American Farm Bureau Federation urged senators to delay action on an extension of the "voluntary" corn and livestock feed grain program, and forecast rejection of the new wheat controls by farmers later this month.

He testified that a sharp drop in prices of beef cattle and hogs this year had cost farmers and producers some $2 billion, or more than the $1.7 billion paid out by taxpayers for the corn and feed grains controls efforts on 1961 and 1962 crops.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., chairman of the Agriculture Committee, conducting the hearings on a two-year extension of the feed grains program already approved by the House, disputed most of Shuman's testimony.

And Ellender said he expects to have the feed grain bill approved by his committee later this week and through the Senate "and on the President's desk before the wheat referendum" May 21.

Ellender said a Nebraska county Farm Bureau official had telephoned and written him suggesting that the Senate committee investigate where Shuman and the national bureau are getting funds to oppose the grains controls.

He identified the dissenter as Bryce Ohmstede of Guide Rock, Neb., vice president of the Webster County Farm Bureau.

Shuman said the Farm Bureau would welcome any investigation and replied that the national organization is financed by $1 a year from its more than 1,607,000 farm family members.

With some 2,700 county Farm Bureaus it is not unusual for one or two to "disagree very violently," he said, adding that Farm Bureau spending "is a mere pittance compared with the money spent by the other side."

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, later suggested that Congress should investigate how much of taxpayer money is being spent on county farmer committeemen and other government workers seeking a yes vote on the wheat controls.

Shuman said the feed grains bill was being rushed through Congress "as a gimmick" to try to influence a favorable vote on stricter wheat controls.

Marking Lewis, Clark Trail OKd By House Group

Washington (AP)—A resolution to express the view of Congress that the Lewis and Clark route from St. Louis to the Pacific Northwest should be marked was approved Tuesday by a House Interior Subcommittee.

It also would express the sense of Congress that the route traversed by the two explorers in 1804-06 should be kept available "for the inspiration and enjoyment of the American people."

In addition, the resolution would express congressional desire that federal agencies act in concert to preserve and mark appropriately the route where it crosses lands they administer and assure public access to those lands.

State, counties, municipalities, and persons who own lands along the route would be invited to join in preserving, marking and assuring public access to the route.

Rep. John Kyl, R-Iowa, one of the authors of the resolution, testified the idea of a Lewis and Clark trail was fostered originally by the late J. N. Ding Darling, journalist and conservationist.

A strip almost half the continent in length would be tied together in a planned area for both preservation and recreation, he said.

Summary Of Conditions

The weather map shows a fast-moving low pressure area centered over Western Ontario with a cold front trailing westwards through northern Minnesota, southeastern North Dakota, northwestern South Dakota and central Wyoming.

There is a small, eastward moving low along the cold front. This cold front is expected to move southward to northern Nebraska, northern Iowa and southern Wisconsin by Wednesday evening.

This means that skies will continue to be fair to partly cloudy Wednesday, Wednesday night and Thursday.

Temperatures will be a little cooler in extreme northern Nebraska and northern Iowa Wednesday night. Otherwise it will continue to be warm.

There will be a few showers or thunderstorms late Wednesday afternoon or early Wednesday evening which are likely along the cold front through northern portions of Nebraska and Iowa.

Way Of Life At Stake

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Many long years ago the Pawnees peacefully cultivated the productive Platte River valley. The Cheyennes to the west loved the soil and rivers, too, and all kept their distance from the Sioux hunters and warriors who claimed the rich buffalo lands of the Sandhills. Life really wasn't simple then because the Indians had a great many problems but it was a little less complex than it is today.

From a sprawling territory that spawned French and Spanish trade with the Indians came the raw state of Nebraska and it bridged the nation as it bridged the great gulf that existed between the Indian and white man's civilization. From the devastation of floods it has wrought tremendous reclamation projects and thousands upon thousands of acres of irrigated land. From soil with a limited capacity and human means of little knowledge has come a ten-fold increase in productivity because we learned to replenish the land and to cultivate our seed and our farming practices.

The Fertile Soil

When the earth was scourged with hordes of grasshoppers, it brought despair but it also hewed a character. It was a character touched with tenacity in overcoming the adversity of the elements, with the will and strength of purpose that drove traders over the Sante Fe Trail and pioneers over the Oregon Trail, with a spirit of adventure that tamed the Sandhills and with a serenity gleaned from clear, cold streams, the Pine Ridge, fertile valleys and endless prairie.

It was prairie land where the grass grew tall, and still does, and valleys that could feed a large part of this nation all by themselves if they were called upon to do so. It is land that has given forth of oil, has provided us with electric energy and has sustained fine cities.

In the nearly 100 years of our official history as a state, we have seen many changes and we have much in which to take pride. We have had our share of statesmen, of writers and other artists, of industrialists, of educators and many others. And anyone who thinks for a minute that we have now seen the end of the line just lacks the capacity to comprehend the times. There is none who can say in specific detail exactly where it is Nebraska will be going in the years ahead but there really is no question that it will be forward and to better things, as the state and its people have always done in the past. Could it really be any other way with a state that can boast of the heritage that is ours?

But every now and then we can expect to get confused. It is easy to lose your perspective when you become too confined with the problems and challenges of the moment. Take, for instance, the comment of the Dawson County Herald on the issue of dog-racing for Nebraska. "Many Nebraskans" said the Herald, "were rudely jolted this past week by the dog-racing issue and the revenue committee's approving action. More rude jolts are in store if they do not become cognizant of the fact that more important things are at stake than a few added tax dollars." Certainly there is more at stake than a few tax dollars, be they in any form that might be the caprice of our Legislature and in any reasonable amount. What is at stake is a way of life, a spark of greatness that has marked this century of Nebraska's being.

We wonder what the early settlers would have said if someone had proposed, for one-tenth of one per cent of what they owned, to give their children an education that would equip them handsomely to make a way of life far better and farm more constructive than their parents could ever have hoped for? But that is about the average paid by Nebraska taxpayers for the University of Nebraska.

We wonder what these settlers might have said to a four-lane hard-surfaced highway that could transport them across the state in a day as compared to the 15 miles or so they made over a dusty trail? Along the path succeeding generations have traveled, they did provide these things as best they could.

No Standing Still

And now it is the turn of the present generation. It will not say that the level of education today is adequate, that transportation needs no improvement, that medicine will advance no further, that crop yields will remain static, that our natural resources shall have no more attention or that the needy must go unattended. It will not be said by them any more than the pioneers were satisfied with their sod huts or log cabins, their inadequacy to deal with the elements, their short life expectancy, their limited knowledge and the physical hardship of their existence.

They sacrificed that all these things could be changed for the better and that is the kind of challenge we face. Not by the size of our bank accounts when we die or our tax rates will we be judged, but rather, by the state and way of life we pass on to our children. Nebraska's heritage is not stagnation, but a vibrant, living and enthusiastic dedication to a better way of life tomorrow. We have the purpose; we have the capacity. We need only find the way, as men have always had to do.

The NLRB Ruling

The Teamsters Union has appealed a ruling by the National Labor Relations Board nullifying the hot cargo provision contained in the labor contracts with some employers.

The disputed clause has allowed the Teamsters to refuse to haul loads to and from picketed plants although the Teamsters themselves were not involved in the dispute. The NLRB has directed the union to haul as usual unless the issue involves them.

At first glance the decision seems to be a hard blow to unionism, a direct thrust at secondary support of a strike. But there is more to it than that.

Unions do not enjoy equal powers. In the days when coal ruled the economy, it took only the decision of John L. Lewis to bring both the coal operators and other unions to heel. Today a comparable power rests with the head of the Teamsters union. It can injure another union as easily as it can help one, if it so chooses. That is a dangerous privilege, reminding all unions dependent upon transportation to look questioningly at the Teamsters before determining to move in their own field. That is an infringement on self-determination and can render a union subordinate to an interest which can give or take away according to its own convenience.

It is seldom that such decisive power can live long for the good of anyone. The behavior of the headmen of the Teamsters Union has convinced a great many people that they are not a group to be trusted with super power. They like the feel of it too well and in too many instances have used it to give the public the big ouch.

Resentment Fades

A few years ago the residents of Randolph, Kansas, waged a bitter and unremitting war against the building of the giant Tuttle Creek dam.

They were not against taming the Blue river or saving the people of Kansas City from periodic flooding. They were against a 15,806 acre reservoir which would extinguish their beloved town. Nor were they mollified when a thoughtful government gave them a new town on high ground a mile and a half away, built new schools, a new highway, purchased farms at generous prices. Of the 400 residents all but 30 departed.

Now the dam is finished. The big reservoir has filled to its conservation level. The vast, clear, blue water mirrors the delightful wooded hills and for the first time in its existence the Big Blue has become a tranquil asset.

The change is coming over the new Randolph. It is beginning to grow. It has a future as a recreation resort that makes its new mayor, Harold Bellman, speak of a future the old Randolph never contemplated. Most of the bitterness has turned to nostalgia. Memories come rolling back as the old timers gaze over the great sweep of water. They remember old friendships, lovely streets, sweetness and sorrow now in the realm of never forever.

But these modern day Acadians are finding out that the new streets and new hills and new structures are building friendships and communal loveliness because it is people who fashion such things not locations. And another thing has been added. The limitations of the old town have been dissolved. They have been replaced by the visible promise of an exciting and rewarding future. The little town is finding out that destructive and constructive change are quite dissimilar. It is a valuable example for other areas facing the need for resources development and conservation.

New Trade School Scuttled

Not everyone will be pleased with the Legislature's disposal by killing of a bill aimed at establishment of a new trade school in Nebraska. There is undoubtedly some merit in the proposal but it has lacked a convincing argument to date. The issue will now be placed in the hands of a Legislative Council interim study committee.

This should result in the accumulation of sufficient facts to form the basis of an intelligent decision in 1965 by the Legislature. There have been reports that such a school in the central part of the state was greatly in demand but the validity of such reports has been questioned.

Taking some of the edge off the drive for a new school is the fact that private schools in Nebraska have not yet reached capacity, nor has the state school at Milford. Most of the private schools are not centrally located and Milford is little better but this is not necessarily the full explanation of their limited operation.

Milford is largely filled to its present capacity but has potential for easy expansion. It would seem that the state would get the maximum out of the Milford school before it turned to creation of a new facility elsewhere. All signs point to the eventual need for a new trade school to serve the central and western area of the state but a two-year postponement is not likely to be of great significance.

Of course, the Legislature has not yet decided, either, to provide funds for the expansion of Milford but it will not fail to do so if it hopes to meet its responsibilities. Beyond that, there would be wisdom in putting our money into projects that would encourage the location in the state of industries that demand the skills attained in these schools.

Congress Wives Feeling Snubbed

WASHINGTON — Jacqueline Kennedy has done a great job for the USA in winning friends, all the way from Venezuela to Vienna. But on Capitol Hill where her husband has to win votes, the wives of congressmen say she's a bust.

They say she has snubbed and snooted them. Anything as corny as Kansas on the 4th of July, they say, is just too American for Jackie.

Every year the wives of congressmen give a big annual breakfast for the first lady and go to a lot of trouble to make it a bang-up success. This year Jackie bowed out, which is why they're especially burned up. But last year they were irked too They had invested $150 in a bottle of very fancy French perfume. Jackie said thank you and then sat down.

"Wouldn't you have thought she'd have had enough courtesy to say just a few words to all of us who were so thrilled to have her and had tried so hard to please?" exclaimed one congressional wife.

This year the wives are really boiling over. Jackie's excuse for declining their annual breakfast was her expectant condition. However, the ladies of Capitol Hill point out that she had attended all the folderol for the Grand Duchess Charlotte of Luxembourg the night before, and that she had let the congressional wives go ahead with their breakfast plans for many weeks, though obviously knowing she was pregnant.

Finally the wives note that on the very same day that Jackie snubbed their breakfast, she turned up in New York to attend the Metropolitan opera, a trip which is a lot more vigorous than merely going a few blocks to a twelve noon breakfast in Washington.

The President, perhaps sensing the ire of the snubbed ladies, graciously substituted for his wife and did a bang-up job. But even this didn't quiet the ire of the ladies who rule the roost on Capitol Hill.

GOP Eyes Turn Toward Romney

WASHINGTON — This is George Romney month in Republican presidential speculation. Party leaders will be clocking his applause, at a fund-raising dinner here Thursday night in honor of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona. It seems certain to be considerable.

Not all Romney admirers are happy about the trial heat set up for the governor of Michigan by former President Eisenhower and Richard Nixon at the behest of uneasy eastern internationalists. What the spotlight brings to a front-runner in publicity, but it necessarily also exposes his problems.

Up to now the compact car industrialist has profited greatly from the display of a handsome, hearty personality. His political performnace has not really had time to develop. The new Michigan state constitution he pushed to narrow victory will enable him to be a better governor, but its fruits have not as yet ripened.

Furthermore, as he is pushed to the fore in presidential speculation, he will be under party pressure to alter the "citizens' candidate" image with which he ended many years of Democratic control of his big state. This could in turn result at home in hardening Democratic partisan attitudes which could hurt his legislative prospects.

The governor has not had time, either, to get his ducks in a row in some respects. The really big industrialists have not altogether forgotten his compact car challenge to them and his speculation that business could sometimes be too big.

Romney is a Mormon and in his Michigan candidacy had to answer questions about the tenet of his faith which appears to bar "men of the Negro race" from holding offices in the church. This is met forthrightly in the John F. Kennedy manner by going into Negro churches and explaining that this tenet, dated May 4, 1865, did not and would not affect his actions, as a person or as governor.

The question will certainly be raised again. It is particularly touchy because of the importance of the Negro vote in the big states, plus the Republican drive into the South.

The Mormon church has only recently tackled a political problem in a forthright manner which should be helpful to all candidates in both parties. This was the activity of the John Birch society in Utah which was getting the more attention because Reed Benson, son of the Eisenhower secretary of agriculture, is a paid agent of the society. The senior Benson is fourth in seniority among the apostles who administer church affairs.

In a formal statement, the church presidency expressed disapproval of the John Birch Society and disavowed any connection with it. It added firmly that the church does not and cannot support a group which uses "questionable methods" to fight communism.

The election of President Kennedy suggested that the American people are more sophisticated in their political attitudes than the more emotional type of politician. This may prove in the end to be true of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's candidacy. But the word-of-mouth issues tend to become very public as the candidates move up under national attention.

Water Pollution Growing Problem

WASHINGTON — When they returned recently from their recess within a recess a number of members of Congress reported they found people back home interested not in Laos or Cuba or even in the Rockefeller marriage and how it may affect the presidential race next year but in something much more immediate. That is how they can be sure of getting a drink of relatively unpolluted water when they turn on the tap.

Pollution of the water supply is becoming a serious problem in area after area. In many communities those who can afford it are buying bottled water. They are becoming accustomed to seeing a deposit of sediment from water out of the tap run into bathtubs and dishpans.

This has a direct bearing on conservation and the survival of fish and game. But as hundreds of newly developed chemical compounds are dumped into streams in industrial waste and used with a heavy hand in insect sprays it is a factor of still-undetermined significance in the health of human beings. And as compared to the thousands of scientists at work developing new chemicals and pesticides very little is being done about this wholesale pollution of the environment.

A principal source that has been building up during the past 15 years is the chemical detergents used by millions of housewives in automatic diswashers. Today four billion pounds of detergent a year are used. This chemical dissolves in water only very gradually and so, as it is dumped into sewage systems that in turn pour into streams and rivers, it is a more or less permanent cause of pollution.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D-Wis.) has put in a bill which would set standards that detergent manufacturers must meet after 1965. New processes are available which at little additional cost would produce soluble detergents. This has been proved out in West Germany which pioneered the chemical detergents. There the parliament outlawed insoluble detergents after a certain date when it was shown that even principal rivers, such as the Rhine, were piled high with detergent foam.

Nelson, who as governor pushed through a $50,000,000 conservation program to preserve the great recreation resources of his state, told the Senate that chemical detergents had been found to have polluted the underground water in 64 of Wisconsin's 72 counties. He punctured the idea that this was a state problem which could be handled by the state, pointing out that underground water supplies following mysterious underground routes lead for hundreds of miles in all directions from Wisconsin's rivers and streams.

He called attention to the effect of detergent foam in clogging sewage plants. This foam becomes impregnated with a high bacteria count and carried by the wind it becomes an immediate health hazard. As early as 1950 the Wisconsin State Board of Health reported a wall of foam on the Mississippi river in western Wisconsin 15 feet high, 35 feet wide and 300 feet long. Some years later helicopters had to be used to blow away foam on the Baraboo river in searching for a lost boy.

The official West Germany Institute for Water, Soil and Air Hygiene reported last year finding indications of cancer-producing effects of detergents in the water supply. This is, of course only a tentative finding. But it suggests the unknowns in the release of as vast new volume of chemicals in man's environment.

A few scientists in the Taft Sanitary Engineering Center in Cincinnati have been studying the effects of detergent pollution. In a recent report they pointed out how dire the consequences can be as virtually all of this material finds its way into surface and ground water. Since with the population explosion water supplies must be used over and over, the cumulative volume of detergents can be an ever-increasing menace unless it is checked.

Only the more dramatic instances get into the news. In Suffolk County, New York, the tap water came out foaming like beer. At one point the Federal Housing Administration refused to insure mortgages because the quality of well water showed the long-term effects of detergents from septic tank effluent.

Nelson, a freshman senator, is convinced there is a large body of public opinion deeply concerned about pollution of the air and water and ready to respond to leadership seeking to save what is left of the American heritage and to protect defenseless individuals from poisons discharged at random into the environment. In introducing his detergent bill, he spoke of a battle to preserve the simplest basic elements necessary to human survival. This is a line that may have far more political appeal than is realized here in the capital.

Grandpa Says

Guide Rock, Neb.

I see by the papers that them Midwest Republicans in the House are working on a new wheat feed grain bill.

Grandpa says they remind him of a story about the deacon that was standing at the church door passin' out bulletins: when all of a sudden he sees the Lord comin' up the steps. Well, the deacon rushes up to the preacher and whispers to him, "The Lord is comin' up the steps.' What do we do now?" The preacher answered, "Look busy!"

Grandpa says he sure hopes them Midwest Republicans don't get so busy "looking busy" that they forget to study up on how to vote for a bill. They ain't done it for so long that Grandpa is afraid they have forgotten how.

Grandpa says if them Senate boys don't get with it and pass that feed grain bill they got hung up in committee, it won't be the Lord on the Senate steps. It will be mad farmers with their pitchfork.

Closing Hardships

Lincoln, Neb.

Senators Kremer and Reeves have announced that the reason for their introduction of the Sunday closing law is to provide a common day of rest and relaxation. I doubt this, very seriously, and submit the theory that their true purpose is to elicit support from the totalitarian "Christian" segment of the electorate who are bent on forcing their own version of Christianity on the general public, both Christian and non-Christian.

Common day of rest or no, this law is contrary to the spirit if not the letter of the United States Constitution. It most certainly respects an establishment of religion and though it perhaps does not specifically prohibit the free exercise of religion, it does tend to make the free exercise of some religions economically unfeasible.

These reasons alone are sufficient, in my opinion, to make this law unjust and unconstitutional. There are more, such as the unwarranted interference with individual freedom and the personal hardship which passage of this law would work on a large number of citizens.

My reasons for opposition to Sunday closing are two: first, I value my liberty and I am sworn to uphold the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic. Second I am one of those on whom a hardship would be worked. I work a nominal 44-hour week, including Saturday afternoon, with such (unpaid) overtime as my superiors dictate. My wife works a 40-hour week, including all day Saturday. Sunday is the only day on which we can shop together, work on our house and garden, etc. When I need a tool, bag of fertilizer, parts for my car, etc., where will I get them if all the stores are forced to close on Sunday? If, through oversight or unexpected guests, I need additional food on Sunday, where will I get it?

If certain persons seriously object to Sunday sales, let them abstain from patronizing those businesses that elect to remain open on Sunday. If they object to working on Sunday, let them explain to their employers. I doubt that there are many businessmen in this state who would discharge a valuable employe simply because of his deep religious convictions.

Thank You

Lincoln, Neb.

On April 30, 1963, at 6:00 p.m., my wife and I were guests at one of the finest gestures I have witnessed in the 10 years I have been coaching in Nebraska and Kansas high schools. Mr. Newt Copple sponsored and hosted an evening of fine entertainment for the members of the four Lincoln high school wrestling teams, their coaches, principals, and a few parents. Special delivery air mail brought the group films of the 1962 World Championship Free-Style Wrestling Tournament held in Ohio, and this, added to some wise words spoken to the group by honored guests who are great amateur wrestlers themselves, made the evening informative as well as entertaining.

The members of the Lincoln High wrestling team, Mr. Osborn, Mr. Pfieff and I would like to take this opportunity to sincerely thank Mr. Copple for a very fine evening honoring a special groups of boys.

Weak And Strong

Hastings, Neb.

The legislative wrestling over taxes for the biennium is our most interesting athletic event.

I think it would be degrading to establish dog-racing to help solve that tussle. The most of us will go along with the high taxes on tobaccos and liquors because they are considered necessary evils. We won't worry about its making the weak support the strong. But there are other ways of making the weak support the strong which should be beneath our dignity.

The direct property tax as the big source of revenue places the burden too much on the weak. If it were not for our evil desire to accumulate needless riches, the income tax would be our most popular form.

We believe that many of Nebraska's property tax payers receive less than $3,000 per year. Perhaps these are the majority. Our difficulty is that our tax-eaters do not want to live like "other people."

Since we are what we are, only an economical tax program can be popular in Nebraska. Sad?

Way Of Life At Stake

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Many long years ago the Pawnees peacefully cultivated the productive Platte River valley. The Cheyennes to the west loved the soil and rivers, too, and all kept their distance from the Sioux hunters and warriors who claimed the rich buffalo lands of the Sandhills. Life really wasn't simple then because the Indians had a great many problems but it was a little less complex than it is today.

The Fertile Soil

From a sprawling territory that spawned French and Spanish trade with the Indians came the raw state of Nebraska and it bridged the nation as it bridged the great gulf that existed between the Indian and white man's civilization. From the devastation of floods it has wrought tremendous reclamation projects and thousands upon thousands of acres of irrigated land. From soil with a limited capacity and human means of little knowledge has come a ten-fold increase in productivity because we learned to replenish the land and to cultivate our seed and our farming practices.

When the earth was scourged with hordes of grasshoppers, it brought despair but it also hewed a character. It was a character touched with tenacity in overcoming the adversity of the elements, with the will and strength of purpose that drove traders over the Sante Fe Trail and pioneers over the Oregon Trail, with a spirit of adventure that tamed the Sandhills and with a serenity gleaned from clear, cold streams, the Pine Ridge, fertile valleys and endless prairie.

It was prairie land where the grass grew tall, and still does, and valleys that could feed a large part of this nation all by themselves if they were called upon to do so. It is land that has given forth of oil, has provided us with electric energy and has sustained fine cities.

In the nearly 100 years of our official history as a state, we have seen many changes and we have much in which to take pride. We have had our share of statesmen, of writers and other artists, of industrialists, of educators and many others. And anyone who thinks for a minute that we have now seen the end of the line just lacks the capacity to comprehend the times. There is none who can say in specific detail exactly where it is Nebraska will be going in the years ahead but there really is no question that it will be forward and to better things, as the state and its people have always done in the past. Could it really be any other way with a state that can boast of the heritage that is ours?

But every now and then we can expect to get confused. It is easy to lose your perspective when you become too confined with the problems and challenges of the moment. Take, for instance, the comment of the Dawson County Herald on the issue of dog-racing for Nebraska. "Many Nebraskans," said the Herald, "were rudely jolted this past week by the dog-racing issue and the revenue committee's approving action. More rude jolts are in store if they do not become cognizant of the fact that more important things are at stake than a few added tax dollars." Certainly there is more at stake than a few tax dollars, be they in any form that might be the caprice of our Legislature and in any reasonable amount. What is at stake is a way of life, a spark of greatness that has marked this century of Nebraska's being.

We wonder what the early settlers would have said if someone had proposed, for one-tenth of one per cent of what they owned, to give their children an education that would equip them handsomely to make a way of life far better and farm more constructive than their parents could ever have hoped for? But that is about the average paid by Nebraska taxpayers for the University of Nebraska.

We wonder what these settlers might have said to a four-lane hard-surfaced highway that could transport them across the state in a day as compared to the 15 miles or so they made over a dusty trail? Along the path succeeding generations have traveled, they did provide these things as best they could.

No Standing Still

And now it is the turn of the present generation. It will not say that the level of education today is adequate, that transportation needs no improvement, that medicine will advance no further, that crop yields will remain static, that our natural resources shall have no more attention or that the needy must go unattended. It will not be said by them any more than the pioneers were satisfied with their sod huts or log cabins, their inadequacy to deal with the elements, their short life expectancy, their limited knowledge and the physical hardship of their existence.

They sacrificed that all these things could be changed for the better and that is the kind of challenge we face. Not by the size of our bank accounts when we die or our tax rates will we be judged, but rather, by the state and way of life we pass on to our children. Nebraska's heritage is not stagnation, but a vibrant, living and enthusiastic dedication to a better way of life tomorrow. We have the purpose; we have the capacity. We need only find the way, as men have always had to do.

The NLRB Ruling

The Teamsters Union has appealed a ruling by the National Labor Relations Board nullifying the hot cargo provision contained in the labor contracts with some employers.

The disputed clause has allowed the Teamsters to refuse to haul loads to and from picketed plants although the Teamsters themselves were not involved in the dispute. The NLRB has directed the union to haul as usual unless the issue involves them.

At first glance the decision seems to be a hard blow to unionism, a direct thrust at secondary support of a strike. But there is more to it than that.

Unions do not enjoy equal powers. In the days when coal ruled the economy, it took only the decision of John L. Lewis to bring both the coal operators and other unions to heel. Today a comparable power rests with the head of the Teamsters union. It can injure another union as easily as it can help one, if it so chooses. That is a dangerous privilege, reminding all unions dependent upon transportation to look questioningly at the Teamsters before determining to move in their own field. That is an infringement on self-determination and can render a union subordinate to an interest which can give or take away according to its own convenience.

It is seldom that such decisive power can live long for the good of anyone. The behavior of the headmen of the Teamsters Union has convinced a great many people that they are not a group to be trusted with super power. They like the feel of it too well and in too many instances have used it to give the public the big ouch.

Resentment Fades

A few years ago the residents of Randolph, Kansas, waged a bitter and unremitting war against the building of the giant Tuttle Creek dam.

They were not against taming the Blue river or saving the people of Kansas City from periodic flooding. They were against a 15,800 acre reservoir which would extinguish their beloved town. Nor were they mollified when a thoughtful government gave them a new town on high ground a mile and a half away, built new schools, a new highway, purchased farms at generous prices. Of the 400 residents all but 30 departed.

Now the dam is finished. The big reservoir has filled to its conservation level. The vast, clear, blue water mirrors the delightful wooded hills and for the first time in its existence the Big Blue has become a tranquil asset.

The change is coming over the new Randolph. It is beginning to grow. It has a future as a recreation resort that makes its new mayor, Harold Bellman, speak of a future the old Randolph never contemplated. Most of the bitterness has turned to nostalgia. Memories come rolling back as the old timers gaze over the great sweep of water. They remember old friendships, lovely streets, sweetness and sorrow now in the realm of never forever.

But these modern day Acadians are finding out that the new streets and new hills and new structures are building friendships and communal loveliness because it is people who fashion such things not locations. And another thing has been added. The limitations of the old town have been dissolved. They have been replaced by the visible promise of an exciting and rewarding future. The little town is finding out that destructive and constructive change are quite dissimilar. It is a valuable example for other areas facing the need for resources development and conservation.

New Trade School Scuttled

Not everyone will be pleased with the Legislature's disposal by killing of a bill aimed at establishment of a new trade school in Nebraska. There is undoubtedly some merit in the proposal but it has lacked a convincing argument to date. The issue will now be placed in the hands of a Legislative Council interim study committee.

This should result in the accumulation of sufficient facts to form the basis of an intelligent decision in 1965 by the Legislature. There have been reports that such a school in the central part of the state was greatly in demand but the validity of such reports has been questioned.

Taking some of the edge off the drive for a new school is the fact that private schools in Nebraska have not yet reached capacity, nor has the state school at Milford. Most of the private schools are not centrally located and Milford is little better but this is not necessarily the full explanation of their limited operation.

Milford is largely filled to its present capacity but has potential for easy expansion. It would seem that the state would get the maximum out of the Milford school before it turned to creation of a new facility elsewhere. All signs point to the eventual need for a new trade school to serve the central and western area of the state but a two-year postponement is not likely to be of great significance.

Of course, the Legislature has not yet decided, either, to provide funds for the expansion of Milford but it will not fail to do so if it hopes to meet its responsibilities. Beyond that, there would be wisdom in putting our money into projects that would encourage the location in the state of industries that demand the skills attained in these schools.

He punctured the idea that this was a state problem which could be handled by the state, pointing out that underground water supplies following mysterious underground routes lead for hundreds of miles in all directions from Wisconsin's rivers and streams.

He called attention to the effect of detergent foam in clogging sewage plants. This foam becomes impregnated with a high bacteria count and carried by the wind it becomes an immediate health hazard. As early as 1950 the Wisconsin State Board of Health reported a wall of foam on the Mississippi river in western Wisconsin 15 feet high, 35 feet wide and 300 feet long. Some years later helicopters had to be used to blow away foam on the Baraboo river in searching for a lost boy.

The official West Germany Institute for Water, Soil and Air Hygiene reported last year finding indications of cancer-producing effects of detergents in the water supply. This is, of course only a tentative finding. But it suggests the unknowns in the release of as vast new volume of chemicals in man's environment.

A few scientists in the Taft Sanitary Engineering Center in Cincinnati have been studying the effects of detergent pollution. In a recent report they pointed out how dire the consequences can be as virtually all of this material finds its way into surface and ground water. Since with the population explosion water supplies must be used over and over, the cumulative volume of detergents can be an ever-increasing menace unless it is checked.

Only the more dramatic instances get into the news. In Suffolk County, New York, the tap water came out foaming like beer. At one point the Federal Housing Administration refused to insure mortgages because the quality of well water showed the long-term effects of detergents from septic tank effluent.

Nelson, a freshman senator, is convinced there is a large body of public opinion deeply concerned about pollution of the air and water and ready to respond to leadership seeking to save what is left of the American heritage and to protect defenseless individuals from poisons discharged at random into the environment. In introducing his detergent bill, he spoke of a battle to preserve the simplest basic elements necessary to human survival. This is a line that may have far more political appeal than is realized here in the capital.

Grandpa Says

Guide Rock, Neb.

I see by the papers that them Midwest Republicans in the House are working on a new wheat feed grain bill.

Grandpa says they remind him of a story about the deacon that was standing at the church door passin' out bulletins, when all of a sudden he sees the Lord comin' up the steps. Well, the deacon rushes up to the preacher and whispers to him, "The Lord is comin' up the steps.' What do we do now?" The preacher answered, "Look busy!"

Grandpa says he sure hopes them Midwest Republicans don't get so busy "looking busy" that they forget to study up on how to vote for a bill. They ain't done it for so long that Grandpa is afraid they have forgotten how.

Grandpa says if them Senate boys don't get with it and pass that feed grain bill they got hung up in committee, it won't be the Lord on the Senate steps. It will be mad farmers with their pitchfork.

Closing Hardships

Lincoln, Neb.

Senators Kremer and Reeves have announced that the reason for their introduction of the Sunday closing law is to provide a common day of rest and relaxation. I doubt this, very seriously, and submit the theory that their true purpose is to elicit support from the totalitarian "Christian" segment of the electorate who are bent on forcing their own version of Christianity on the general public, both Christian and non-Christian.

Common day of rest or no, this law is contrary to the spirit if not the letter of the United States Constitution. It most certainly respects an establishment of religion and though it perhaps does not specifically prohibit the free exercise of religion, it does tend to make the free exercise of some religions economically unfeasible.

These reasons alone are sufficient, in my opinion, to make this law unjust and unconstitutional. There are more, such as the unwarranted interference with indidual freedom and the personal hardship which passage of this law would work on a large number of citizens.

My reasons for opposition to Sunday closing are two: first, I value my liberty and I am sworn to uphold the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic. Second I am one of those on whom a hardship would be worked. I work a nominal 44-hour week, including Saturday afternoon, with such (unpaid) overtime as my superiors dictate. My wife works a 40-hour week, including all day Saturday. Sunday is the only day on which we can shop together, work on our house and garden, etc. When I need a tool, bag of fertilizer, parts for my car, etc., where will I get them if all the stores are forced to close on Sunday? If, through oversight or unexpected guests, I need additional food on Sunday, where will I get it?

If certain persons seriously object to Sunday sales, let them abstain from patronizing those businesses that elect to remain open on Sunday. If they object to working on Sunday, let them explain to their employers. I doubt that there are many businessmen in this state who would discharge a valuable employe simply because of his deep religious convictions.

Thank You

Lincoln, Neb.

On April 30, 1963, at 6:00 p.m., my wife and I were guests at one of the finest gestures I have witnessed in the 10 years I have been coaching in Nebraska and Kansas high schools. Mr. Newt Copple sponsored and hosted an evening of fine entertainment for the members of the four Lincoln high school wrestling teams, their coaches, principals, and a few parents. Special delivery air mail brought the group films of the 1962 World Championship Free-Style Wrestling Tournament held in Ohio, and this, added to some wise words spoken to the group by honored guests who are great amateur wrestlers themselves, made the evening informative as well as entertaining.

The members of the Lincoln High wrestling team, Mr. Osborn, Mr. Pfieff and I would like to take this opportunity to sincerely thank Mr. Copple for a very fine evening honoring a special groups of boys.

Weak And Strong

Hastings, Neb.

The legislative wrestling over taxes for the biennium is our most interesting athletic event.

I think it would be degrading to establish dog-racing to help solve that tussle. The most of us will go along with the high taxes on tobaccos and liquors because they are considered necessary evils. We won't worry about its making the weak support the strong. But there are other ways of making the weak support the strong which should be beneath our dignity.

The direct property tax as the big source of revenue places the burden too much on the weak. If it were not for our evil desire to accumulate needless riches, the income tax would be our most popular form.

We believe that many of Nebraska's property tax payers receive less than $3,000 per year. Perhaps these are the majority. Our difficulty is that our tax-eaters do not want to live like "other people."

Since we are what we are, only an economical tax program can be popular in Nebraska. Sad?

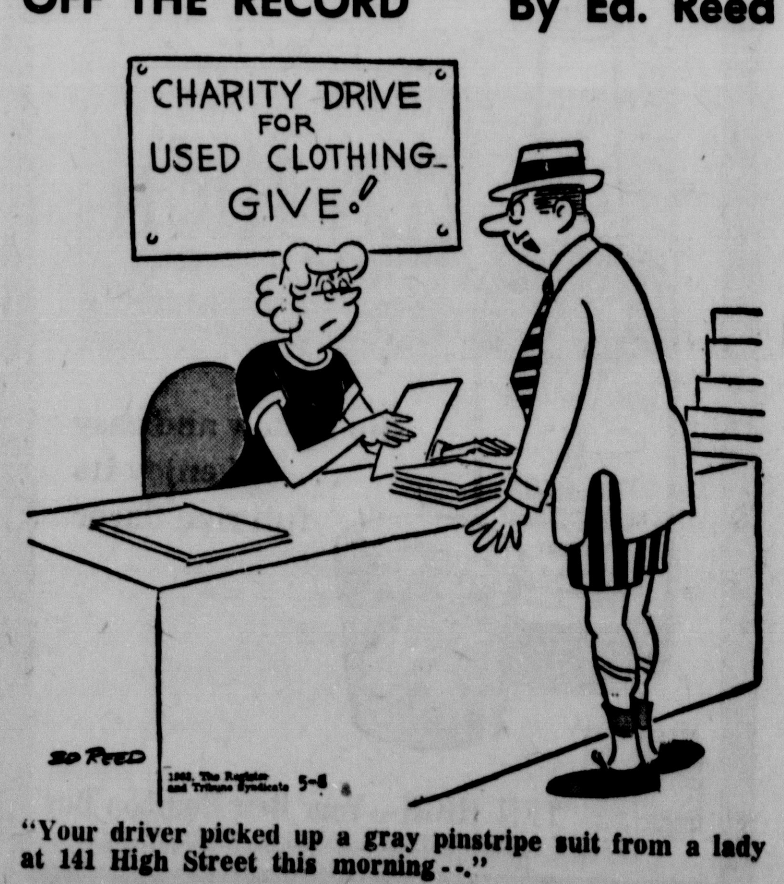
OFF THE RECORD By Ed. Reed



"Your driver picked up a gray pinstripe suit from a lady at 141 High Street this morning--."

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

In London, Greek exile pickets marched outside swank Clardige's where Queen Fredericka and King Paul stayed during the wedding of Princess Alexandra.

And in Athens, on the pine-covered slopes leading to the Acropolis, Acropolis, formed Greek police blocked the way of a "Ban the Bomb" march.

I took a taxi down past the arch of Hadrian, that Spanish-born Roman Emperor whose building works you see from Britain to Africa.

Amid the sea of unreadable Greek, I found the familiar sign: "HERTZ."

I rented a little Fiat and drove out to Sounion.

☆ ☆ ☆

Sounion is at the very tip of the peninsula jutting into the Aegean. There is a curve of sandy beach at the foot of the cliff. And high on the windswept hilltop, there are the great pillars of the temple sacred to Poseidon, the sea god.

On the marble blocks, the passerby of centuries have carved their names.

A seaman of H. M. S. Rose chopped in his name, his ship and the date: 1820.

Lord Byron put his name in the marble wall, a year before he died in the cause of independence and a lack of medical knowledge how to cure acute dysentery.

"June and Harry" are lovingly entwined in hearts of 1908.

Marble cuts easily and man has left his memory all over Greece.

A few years ago, I came out to Sounion and stayed at the hotel along the strip of beach.

The proprietor was still there and remembered me.

Business, he said, had been good. Greece is still warm in the hearts of the English. Now that some foreign exchange restrictions have been removed from Britain, they are flocking back to the sunlit seas.

The Greek islands are being "discovered" by American tourists.

The wealthy West Germans come in quantity. They seem undismayed that the Greeks are a little chilly, remembering the years of occupation.

French was being spoken at the next table.

"We even get Turks," said the waiter with a grimace. The Greeks HATE the Turks.

☆ ☆ ☆

The main visitors to the long beaches are the Athenians themselves. In the summer it is impossible to get cabanas or hotel rooms unless you were foresighted enough to reserve far in advance.

Tour buses come out on weekends by the dozen.

The Athenians dress in the hotel—it is a profitable business and the locker rooms are a large part of the hotel.

The beach is rather narrow and the sand is gray and uninviting.

But the sea floor is superb. It slopes off gradually. The sand is smooth, unmarked by stone or coral. The water is like warm silk. The sea, reaching out to the isles of Greece, is sparkling blue.

☆ ☆ ☆

As I remembered it, the mullet were fresh as a day in spring. They sprinkle it with olive oil and lemon and fresh tarragon leaves. Olive oil and lemon are the base of all Greek cooking.

The white wine was chilled and had a flavor of Greek sunlight.

The waiters rushed back and forth, keeping an eye on the girls on the beach and singing snatches of Greek songs. Their hearts were in their work and the view was magnificent.

And after awhile, I drove back on the inland road. Through roads of rolling hills and olive trees; old German gun emplacements and fallen Greek pillars.

Past fields scarlet with poppies and paths full of donkeys hauling firewood. And so into the modern city of Athens.

'Strong Merger' Power Measure Revived After Heated Debate

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Tuesday revived LB600, the "strong merger" public power reorganization bill, after a furious 3-hour debate which carried 30 minutes into the lawmakers' lunch hour.

Ironically, it was the vote of the two Lincoln Senators which saved the bill just as it was about to fall one count short of revival.

Final vote was 23-17, with 22 required to override the Public Works Committee 5-2 kill count.

The motion to revive — offered by Sen. Harold Stryker of Rising City — could attract only 21 votes on a machine count.

Then, Sen. Marvin E. Stromer switched his nay vote to aye, and Sen. Fern Hubbard Orme announced in favor of revival despite personal fears that the bill might place Lincoln in "very much of a jeopardized position" if it is enacted in its present form.

The irony of their votes was that they were allied with the reorganization wishes of Consumers Public Power District.

CPPD and Lancaster County's 3 senators are at odds over LB633, a pending power bill which would provide for Lincoln operation of Consumers' Lincoln retail distribution system.

LB600, a Legislative Council study committee recommendation introduced by 5 senators, would combine all electric generation and transmission facilities in the eastern two-thirds of the state, excluding the Omaha Public Power District.

Merged would be the properties of CPPD's eastern system, the Nebraska Public Power System and the Nebraska Electric Generation and Transmission Cooperative Inc.

The debate was kicked off by an unusual agreement tossing out all limitations on time.

Stryker argued that the bill would help solve one of public power's major problems by wiping out the dual management of NPPS, a partnership between Loup River Public Power District and Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District.

"You can't run a business with two boards," he insisted.

Enactment of LB600 is necessary, Stryker said, to accomplish resolution of the wholesale problem prior to 1965, when new generation facilities will be needed.

Sen. Albert Kjar of Lexington spearheaded opposing forces, contending that the bill represents "an unholy alliance between Consumers and the rural districts . . . to put Loup and Platte out of existence."

Merger of the wholesale agencies would take irrigation control away from the Platte Valley, Kjar said, and thereby "destroy" the 30-year efforts of people in his area.

Consumers, he declared, was "the first to pollute the pure stream of public power." LB600 would build it into "a vast political organization," Kjar said.

He aimed personal barbs at CPPD management, Consumers attorney Richard Wilson of Lincoln, and Ralph Foreman of Columbus, manager of the Nebraska Electric G & T, all of whom he accused of "not acting in the spirit of public power."

Sen. Michael Russillo of Omaha urged the Legislature to "make haste slowly" by allowing LB220—the power review board bill—to operate for two years prior to any reorganization.

Russillo charged CPPD with "an attempt to dominate" through enactment of LB600, and pointed to service blackout "dangers" of a single agency.

Sen. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth disagreed, suggesting that the state "must have a large generation and transmission system" in order to reduce costs for the utility user.

Sen. Don Thompson of McCook said LB600 "comes nearer to solving public power problems than other proposed bills."

But Sen. Cecil Craft of North Platte declared that the measure is "a Consumers take-over plan."

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff urged revival of the bill, arguing that "we must do something this session or we will be shirking our responsibility."

CPPD, he said, "gives the best service of any power agency, and that's their hold on municipal customers."

Consumers is "best equipped" to operate a vast generation and transmission utility, Carpenter declared.

Sen. F. O. Gottschalk of Columbus said the bill would require refinancing of bonds at an estimated cost of $1.6 million.

Vote on the motion to revive:

For: Bowen, Bridenbaugh, Burbach, Carpenter, Claussen, Damrow, Danner, Ehlewine, Fleming, Forrester, Gerdes, Gerhart, Kremer, Mahoney, Marvel, Nelson, Orme, Reeves, Ruhnke, [illegible], Stromer, Stryker, Thompson.

Against: Dubensky, Brandt, Craft, Foster, Kjar, Lysinger, McGinley, Moulton, Payne, Gottschalk, E. Rasmussen, R. Rasmussen, Russillo, Stalder, Syas, Warner, Wylie.

Not Voting: Adamson, Hasebroock, Klaver.

'Only Income Tax Bill Will Erase Inequities'

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

Sen. George Gerdes of Alliance declared Tuesday that "out-state Nebraska is carrying the metropolitan area on its back when it comes to state taxes," adding that "only the enactment of a state income tax will solve the problem."

"If you have any doubt that Douglas County is getting its state government at a reduced rate compared to taxpayers out-state, all you have to do is to check the record," Gerdes continued.

The Alliance senator explained that Douglas County residents are paying only about one-third as much of their income for state property taxes, compared with residents of Legislative District 29 (Wheeler, Valley, Greeley and Howard counties).

Based on figures compiled from state tax records and income statistics provided by the federal census, Gerdes said the comparison shows that Douglas County residents pay 85 cents out of every $100 of income for state property taxes, compared with $2.48 paid by District 29 residents.

"Farmers and tradesmen in much of out-state Nebraska continue to pay from two to 3 times" the amount paid by Douglas County, he said.

Citing the amounts paid by residents of several legislative districts, Gerdes said that residents of Dist. 25 pay $2.35 out of every $100; Dist. 12, $2.41; Dist. 37, $2.33; Dist. 28, $2.28; Dist. 16, $2.25; Dist. 14, $2.33; Dist. 27, $2.23; Dist. 32, $2.21; Dist. 39, $2.17; Dist. 17, $2.16; Dist. 40, $2.14; Dist. 35, $2.11; Dist. 23, $2.06, and Dist. 22, $2.03.

Inequity

"It is this inequity that must be corrected before Nebraska can begin to develop soundly and surely out-state," Gerdes said.

"Omaha has a good growth, and has made all kinds of economic progress in the past decade, while out-state Nebraska has been just getting by. And the inequitable tax base is the cause of much of our trouble.

"The day when Omaha assumes its fair share of the state tax load will be the day that you will see out-state Nebraska begin to come into its own," he declared.

The Alliance senator charged that the result of the "unfair tax burden reflects itself in the per capita income figures for the various areas of our state, too."

Omaha's per capita income of $2,561 is the highest in the state, he said, while District 29's $1,296 is almost the lowest in the state.

"Yet residents of that district pay almost 3 times the percent of their income for state property tax that Douglas County does."

Lancaster Residents

Gerdes noted that Lancaster County residents pay only 77 cents out of $100 of their income for state property tax, but added that "virtually half of the property in the City of Lincoln is state or federal property, and tax exempt.

"Therefore, Lincoln is in the unusual position of supporting its own community needs, and carrying its state tax load, with half the property it serves not being tax revenue producing property," Gerdes continued.

Metropolitan opponents of the income tax bill are "dedicated to perpetuating a tax system which favors people who do not have to own property to conduct their business," he declared.

Final vote was 23-17, with 22 required to override the Public Works Committee 5-2 kill count.

The motion to revive — offered by Sen. Harold Stryker of Rising City — could attract only 21 votes on a machine count.

Then, Sen. Marvin E. Stromer switched his nay vote to aye, and Sen. Fern Hubbard Orme announced in favor of revival despite personal fears that the bill might place Lincoln in "very much of a jeopardized position" if it is enacted in its present form.

The irony of their votes was that they were allied with the reorganization wishes of Consumers Public Power District.

CPPD and Lancaster County's 3 senators are at odds over LB633, a pending power bill which would provide for Lincoln operation of Consumers' Lincoln retail distribution system.

LB600, a Legislative Council study committee recommendation introduced by 5 senators, would combine all electric generation and transmission facilities in the eastern two-thirds of the state, excluding the Omaha Public Power District.

Merged would be the properties of CPPD's eastern system, the Nebraska Public Power System and the Nebraska Electric Generation and Transmission Cooperative Inc.

The debate was kicked off by an unusual agreement tossing out all limitations on time.

Stryker argued that the bill would help solve one of public power's major problems by wiping out the dual management of NPPS, a partnership between Loup River Public Power District and Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District.

"You can't run a business with two boards," he insisted.

Enactment of LB600 is necessary, Stryker said, to accomplish resolution of the wholesale problem prior to 1965, when new generation facilities will be needed.

Sen. Albert Kjar of Lexington spearheaded opposing forces, contending that the bill represents "an unholy alliance between Consumers and the rural districts . . . to put Loup and Platte out of existence."

Merger of the wholesale agencies would take irrigation control away from the Platte Valley, Kjar said, and thereby "destroy" the 30-year efforts of people in his area.

Consumers, he declared, was "the first to pollute the pure stream of public power." LB600 would build it into "a vast political organization," Kjar said.

He aimed personal barbs at CPPD management, Consumers attorney Richard Wilson of Lincoln, and Ralph Foreman of Columbus, manager of the Nebraska Electric G & T, all of whom he accused of "not acting in the spirit of public power."

Sen. Michael Russillo of Omaha urged the Legislature to "make haste slowly" by allowing LB220—the power review board bill—to operate for two years prior to any reorganization.

Russillo charged CPPD with "an attempt to dominate" through enactment of LB600, and pointed to service blackout "dangers" of a single agency.

Sen. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth disagreed, suggesting that the state "must have a large generation and transmission system" in order to reduce costs for the utility user.

Sen. Don Thompson of McCook said LB600 "comes nearer to solving public power problems than other proposed bills."

But Sen. Cecil Craft of North Platte declared that the measure is "a Consumers take-over plan."

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff urged revival of the bill, arguing that "we must do something this session or we will be shirking our responsibility."

CPPD, he said, "gives the best service of any power agency, and that's their hold on municipal customers."

Consumers is "best equipped" to operate a vast generation and transmission utility, Carpenter declared.

Sen. F. O. Gottschalk of Columbus said the bill would require refinancing of bonds at an estimated cost of $1.6 million.

Vote on the motion to revive:

For: Bowen, Bridenbaugh, Burbach, Carpenter, Claussen, Damrow, Danner, Erlewine, Fleming, Forrester, Gerdes, Gerhart, Kremer, Mahoney, Marvel, Nelson, Orme, Reeves, Ruhnke, Skarda, Stromer, Stryker, Thompson.

Against: Bahensky, Brandt, Craft, Foster, Kjar, Lysinger, McGinley, Moulton Payne, Gottschalk, E. Rasmussen, R. Rasmussen, Russillo, Stalder, Syas, Warner, Wylie.

Not Voting: Adamson, Hasebroock, Klaver.

'Only Income Tax Bill Will Erase Inequities'

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

Sen. George Gerdes of Alliance declared Tuesday that "out-state Nebraska is carrying the metropolitan area on its back when it comes to state taxes," adding that "only the enactment of a state income tax will solve the problem."

"If you have any doubt that Douglas County is getting its state government at a reduced rate compared to taxpayers out-state, all you have to do is to check the record," Gerdes continued.

The Alliance senator explained that Douglas County residents are paying only about one-third as much of their income for state property taxes, compared with residents of Legislative District 29 (Wheeler, Valley, Greeley and Howard counties).

Based on figures compiled from state tax records and income statistics provided by the federal census, Gerdes said the comparison shows that Douglas County residents pay 85 cents out of every $100 of income for state property taxes, compared with $2.48 paid by District 29 residents.

"Farmers and tradesmen in much of out-state Nebraska continue to pay from two to 3 times" the amount paid by Douglas County, he said.

Citing the amounts paid by residents of several legislative districts, Gerdes said that residents of Dist. 25 pay $2.35 out of every $100; Dist. 12, $2.41; Dist. 37, $2.33; Dist. 28, $2.28; Dist. 16, $2.25; Dist. 14, $2.33; Dist. 27, $2.23; Dist. 32, $2.21; Dist. 39, $2.17; Dist. 17, $2.16; Dist. 40, $2.14; Dist. 35, $2.11; Dist. 23, $2.06, and Dist. 22, $2.03.

Inequity

"It is this inequity that must be corrected before Nebraska can begin to develop soundly and surely out-state," Gerdes said.

"Omaha has a good growth, and has made all kinds of economic progress in the past decade, while out-state Nebraska has been just getting by. And the inequitable tax base is the cause of much of our trouble.

"The day when Omaha assumes its fair share of the state tax load will be the day that you will see out-state Nebraska begin to come into its own," he declared.

The Alliance senator charged that the result of the "unfair tax burden reflects itself in the per capita income figures for the various areas of our state, too."

Omaha's per capita income of $2,561 is the highest in the state, he said, while District 29's $1,296 is almost the lowest in the state.

"Yet residents of that district pay almost 3 times the percent of their income for state property tax that Douglas County does."

Lancaster Residents

Gerdes noted that Lancaster County residents pay only 77 cents out of $100 of their income for state property tax, but added that "virtually half of the property in the City of Lincoln is state or federal property, and tax exempt.

"Therefore, Lincoln is in the unusual position of supporting its own community needs, and carrying its state tax load, with half the property it serves not being tax revenue producing property," Gerdes continued.

Metropolitan opponents of the income tax bill are "dedicated to perpetuating a tax system which favors people who do not have to own property to conduct their business," he declared.

Increase In County Levy Is Passed

The Nebraska Legislature Tuesday passed 32-9 LB079 allowing counties having a population of 9,000 or less to increase their county levy from 9 to 12 mills.

The bill carries the emergency clause, meaning it will become law upon the governor's signature.

Too, the bill would allow such counties to increase from 1.07 to 2.5 mills the county levy for improvement and construction of roads.

Other bills passed, with votes:

LB689—Providing for appointment of a coroners physician by counties (42-0).

LB656—Allowing building and loan associations operating in Nebraska to make additional investments (40-0).

LB611—Providing that State Racing Commission funds, after expenses are deducted, shall be divided equally to approved and qualified county fairs or qualified county 4-H Club shows. (38-1)

LB617—Reducing from 400 to 150 feet the maximum height of buildings requiring a permit from the State Aeronautics Department. (42-0).

LB403—Requiring motorists carrying liability insurance to also be insured against bodily harm or death. (40-1).

Debate Delayed On State Funds To Junior Colleges

Debate on the controversial state aid to junior colleges bill was delayed Tuesday when the lawmakers became bogged down over public power problems.

The bill, LB632, was scheduled to be debated Tuesday. It proposes state aid of $90 per year to students in the 4 junior colleges and freshmen and sophomores at Omaha University.

Its principal sponsor, Sen. Don Thompson of McCook, said he does not know whether the bill will be considered Wednesday.

"I am optimistic that it will be advanced when it is debated, however," Thompson said.

The bill was reported to the floor by the Education Committee.

Copies of a telegram from the Omaha School Board urging support of the measure were placed on each senators' desk Tuesday.

Students Riot At Princeton

Princeton, N.J. (AP) — A mob of about 2,000 Princeton University students rampaged through campus and town early Tuesday in a disturbance that reached the lawn of Morven, the stately residence of Gov. Richard J. Hughes.

The rioting students tore up, pushed over or burned almost everything in their path before being turned back after 3 hours by the full force of borough police and university proctors — security officers.

They also stormed the property of university president Robert F. Goheen, where they tore up a length of iron fencing.

Fourteen students were booked on disorderly persons charges Tuesday morning and released on $25 bail each to await hearings on May 20 in magistrate's court.

Reports varied on the cause of the riot. One said it started when firecrackers were tossed at 3 musicians playing outside a dormitory. Another was that an argument broke out in Henry Hall dormitory and someone pulled a fire alarm, sending 300 students rushing into the street.

In a statement Tuesday, Goheen called the riot "a shocking display of individual and collective hooliganism."

He said the rioters "lack even the excuse of a substantive cause" and he promised severe disciplinary action for the offenders.

"Nor can their conduct be brushed aside by 'spring madness' . . . or any such euphemism," he said.

Goheen said he watched from inside his house when the students converged on it. He said he decided it was useless to talk to them because they seemed so wrought up, so he did not make an appearance outside the house.

H. W. Dodwell, campus security officer, said the riot started late Monday night when "a few fellows started playing a clarinet, bagpipe and trumpet outside a dormitory."

Several bonfires were lit and the air became filled with exploding firecrackers and flying toilet paper.

Dodwell said he could not confirm the report of an argument in Henry Hall.

Soon a huge crowd had gathered and the group headed for town.

When the students got there they:

— Burned bus stop benches and a bicycle rack in front of a Nassau Street restaurant.

— Set fire to the tracks of a commuter shuttle train linking Princeton with the Pennsylvania Railroad, having failed to overturn the two-car train.

— Ripped down about 30 feet of a 7-foot-high wrought iron fence at Goheen's residence.

— Lobbed some cherry bombs onto Morven's lawn.

— Paraded through the ball room of Westminster Choir College, about half a mile from the Princeton campus, tossing fireworks about while a formal dance was breaking up.

— Caught underwear and dodged flower pots from the windows of the women's dormitory at Choir College.

—Raided the security guard office next to Nassau Hall where, finding themselves unable to buck a line of guards, they walked back to their dormitories and, presumably, went to sleep.

"It's spring and the sap begins to run," Gov. Hughes said Tuesday morning. He said he was unaware of the riot until he heard news reports.

The governor's mansion is located in this borough about 10 miles northeast of Trenton, the state capital.

Dodwell, who estimated the crowd at close to 2,000, said a disturbance of this kind, in miniature, occurs on campus each spring.

"It's probably the biggest riot since 1954," said Peter J. McCrohan, chief of the Princeton Borough Police.

It began with 6 undergraduates, 4 of them hooded and on horseback, abducting two girls from the shuttle train.

Later, a student tossed a television set from the top of the 60-foot Blair Tower, missing a huge cross made with shaving cream by some 15 feet.

"The one-eyed monster will not rule this campus," the student told campus police.

Shots Fired In Mine Strike

. . . SHATTERS ATTEMPT TO END CRISIS

Whitwell, Tenn. (AP) —Gunfire shattered company attempts to end a 4½-month strike in the southeast Tennesse coalfields Tuesday and renewed bitter charges against the state administration.

A nonunion miner was wounded when 5 shots rang out as a small band of miners started into the Grays Creek mining area past 150-200 United Mine Workers union men. Each side blamed the other for firing the shots.

The Tennessee Highway Patrol, which had two patrol cars in the area, was accused by Paul Callis, president of Tennessee Consolidated Coal Co., of failing to keep highways open.

"You can't work in a state where they don't try to maintain law and order," he asserted.

Follow Instructions

State Safety Commissioner G. Hilton Butler said the patrol will continue to follow standing instructions from Gov. Frank Clement to "keep the state highways of Tennessee open and safe."

Callis said there will be no work call Wednesday.

The 70 nonunion men were attempting to respond to a call by Grundy Mining Co. to return to work for the first time since February. The company has closed its small mines and the only mechanized mine in southeast Tennessee, on grounds that the prolonged UMW strike for higher wages has made it unsafe.

Tennesse Consolidated owns Grundy Mining Co.

On Highway 108

The rapid events occurred on State Highway 108, which runs atop a green, placid mountain north of here.

The nonunion miners were grim and tense as they gathered across the highway from the Griffith Creek Elementary School early Tuesday. Piling into some 20 cars and trucks, they drove several miles to the access road which leads from the highway into the Grays Creek area.

Gathered at the side of the intersection were the UMW demonstrators. They did not block the road to the mines.

As the caravan of nonunion miners neared the intersection, the UMW men began jeering.

Turn Down Road

The 3 lead vehicles — one car, a big coal truck and a pickup truck — turned down the road. That's when the shots were fired.

Bullets pierced the coal truck, driven by E. V. Poore, superintendent of Grundy's mechanized mine, and the red pickup driven by Howard Higgins, foreman of a small mine.

A passenger in one of the lead vehicles, Ernest Anderson, 26, of Tracy City, was shot in the left shoulder. He was not wounded seriously.

The shooting caused the rest of the cars to turn back.

Who fired those shots?

The UMW men blame the shooting on nonunion miners. But the nonunion miners disagreed.

The nonunion men left the area about an hour after the shooting. Most of the UMW demonstrators left by mid-morning.

Mac Wanted Anderson Out

Washington (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara personally recommended dropping Adm. George W. Anderson as chief of naval operations, Assistant Secretary Arthur Sylvester said Tuesday.

McNamara also recommended to President Kennedy the one-year extension of the two-year tour of duty of Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, Sylvester said.

Sylvester, chief of Pentagon Information, was asked at a news briefing whether McNamara — in Hawaii attending a conference on Southeast Asia — knew of the changes.

"Yes," Sylvester replied, McNamara recommended them.

Freighter Rams, Sinks Dutch Ship

New York (AP) — An English freighter ramed and sank a small Dutch ship Tuesday night 5 miles off the New Jersey coast. A crew of about 20 abandoned the smaller vessel and were picked up by the freighter.

There were no casualties.

The collision occurred some 15 miles south of the entrance to New York Harbor, and off Shark River, N.J., just south of Asbury Park.

Students Riot At Princeton

Princeton, N.J. (AP) — A mob of about 2,000 Princeton University students rampaged through campus and town early Tuesday in a disturbance that reached the lawn of Morven, the stately residence of Gov. Richard J. Hughes.

The rioting students tore up, pushed over or burned almost everything in their path before being turned back after 3 hours by the full force of borough police and university proctors — security officers.

They also stormed the property of university president Robert F. Goheen, where they tore up a length of iron fencing.

Fourteen students were booked on disorderly persons charges Tuesday morning and released on $25 bail each to await hearings on May 20 in magistrate's court.

Reports varied on the cause of the riot. One said it started when firecrackers were tossed at 3 musicians playing outside a dormitory. Another was that an argument broke out in Henry Hall dormitory and someone pulled a fire alarm, sending 300 students rushing into the street.

In a statement Tuesday, Goheen called the riot "a shocking display of individual and collective hooliganism."

He said the rioters "lack even the excuse of a substantive cause" and he promised severe disciplinary action for the offenders.

"Nor can their conduct be brushed aside by 'spring madness' . . . or any such euphemism," he said.

Goheen said he watched from inside his house when the students converged on it. He said he decided it was useless to talk to them because they seemed so wrought up, so he did not make an appearance outside the house.

H. W. Dodwell, campus security officer, said the riot started late Monday night when "a few fellows started playing a clarinet, bagpipe and trumpet outside a dormitory."

Several bonfires were lit and the air became filled with exploding firecrackers and flying toilet paper.

Dodwell said he could not confirm the report of an argument in Henry Hall.

Soon a huge crowd had gathered and the group headed for town.

When the students got there they:

— Burned bus stop benches and a bicycle rack in front of a Nassau Street restaurant.

— Set fire to the tracks of a commuter shuttle train linking Princeton with the Pennsylvania Railroad, having failed to overturn the two-car train.

— Ripped down about 30 feet of a 7-foot-high wrought iron fence at Goheen's residence.

— Lobbed some cherry bombs onto Morven's lawn.

— Paraded through the ball room of Westminster Choir College, about half a mile from the Princeton campus, tossing fireworks about while a formal dance was breaking up.

— Caught underwear and dodged flower pots from the windows of the women's dormitory at Choir College.

—Raided the security guard office next to Nassau Hall where, finding themselves unable to buck a line of guards, they walked back to their dormitories and, presumably, went to sleep.

"It's spring and the sap begins to run," Gov. Hughes said Tuesday morning. He said he was unaware of the riot until he heard news reports.

The governor's mansion is located in this borough about 10 miles northeast of Trenton, the state capital.

Dodwell, who estimated the crowd at close to 2,000, said a disturbance of this kind, in miniature, occurs on campus each spring.

"It's probably the biggest riot since 1954," said Peter J. McCrohan, chief of the Princeton Borough Police.

It began with 6 undergraduates, 4 of them hooded and on horseback, abducting two girls from the shuttle train.

Later, a student tossed a television set from the top of the 60-foot Blair Tower, missing a huge cross made with shaving cream by some 15 feet.

"The one-eyed monster will not rule this campus," the student told campus police.

. . . SHATTERS ATTEMPT TO END CRISIS

Whitwell, Tenn. (AP) —Gunfire shattered company attempts to end a 4½-month strike in the southeast Tennesse coalfields Tuesday and renewed bitter charges against the state administration.

A nonunion miner was wounded when 5 shots rang out as a small band of miners started into the Grays Creek mining area past 150-200 United Mine Workers union men. Each side blamed the other for firing the shots.

The Tennessee Highway Patrol, which had two patrol cars in the area, was accused by Paul Callis, president of Tennessee Consolidated Coal Co., of failing to keep highways open.

"You can't work in a state where they don't try to maintain law and order," he asserted.

Follow Instructions

State Safety Commissioner G. Hilton Butler said the patrol will continue to follow standing instructions from Gov. Frank Clement to "keep the state highways of Tennessee open and safe."

Callis said there will be no work call Wednesday.

The 70 nonunion men were attempting to respond to a call by Grundy Mining Co. to return to work for the first time since February. The company has closed its small mines and the only mechanized mine in southeast Tennessee, on grounds that the prolonged UMW strike for higher wages has made it unsafe.

On Highway 108

The rapid events occurred on State Highway 108, which runs atop a green, placid mountain north of here.

The nonunion miners were grim and tense as they gathered across the highway from the Griffith Creek Elementary School early Tuesday. Piling into some 20 cars and trucks, they drove several miles to the access road which leads from the highway into the Grays Creek area.

Gathered at the side of the intersection were the UMW demonstrators. They did not block the road to the mines.

As the caravan of nonunion miners neared the intersection, the UMW men began jeering.

Turn Down Road

The 3 lead vehicles — one car, a big coal truck and a pickup truck — turned down the road. That's when the shots were fired.

Bullets pierced the coal truck, driven by E. V. Poore, superintendent of Grundy's mechanized mine, and the red pickup driven by Howard Higgins, foreman of a small mine.

A passenger in one of the lead vehicles, Ernest Anderson, 26, of Tracy City, was shot in the left shoulder. He was not wounded seriously.

The shooting caused the rest of the cars to turn back.

Who fired those shots?

The UMW men blame the shooting on nonunion miners. But the nonunion miners disagreed.

The nonunion men left the area about an hour after the shooting. Most of the UMW demonstrators left by mid-morning.

Mac Wanted Anderson Out

Washington (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara personally recommended dropping Adm. George W. Anderson as chief of naval operations, Assistant Secretary Arthur Sylvester said Tuesday.

McNamara also recommended to President Kennedy the one-year extension of the two-year tour of duty of Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, Sylvester said.

Sylvester, chief of Pentagon information, was asked at a news briefing whether McNamara — in Hawaii attending a conference on Southeast Asia — knew of the changes.

"Yes," Sylvester replied, McNamara recommended them.

Freighter Rams, Sinks Dutch Ship

New York (AP) — An English freighter ramed and sank a small Dutch ship Tuesday night 5 miles off the New Jersey coast. A crew of about 20 abandoned the smaller vessel and were picked up by the freighter.

There were no casualties.

Father Of Jet Flight, Dr. Von Karman Dies

Aachen, Germany (AP) — Dr Theodore von Karman, 81, a Hungarian-born expert in aerodynamics and astronautics who helped speed American aviation into the jet age, died of a heart attack in an Aachen hospital Monday night

His 82nd birthday was coming next Saturday

Von Karman, whose home was in Pasadena, Calif, was acknowledged to be the father of faster than sound flight and some day may come to be known as the father of space propulsion

President Kennedy presented him the first U S National Medal of Science in the White House rose garden last Feb 18 Kennedy said he knew of no one else "who so completely represents all the areas involved in this medal —science engineering and education"

The short, plump scientist replied that he hoped his work had shown "that the college professor is of some use"

"I will try to be grateful to this country," he said

Flash Fire In Atomic Sub Claims Three

Groton, Conn (AP)—A flash fire in the atomic submarine Flasher killed 3 men and injured two others Tuesday while they were working to meet a June 22 launching deadline

The dead

Lawrence William Stinson, 20, of Waterford, a chipper learner.

Joseph Stanley Baczenski, 26, of Coventry, R. I, a painter.

Donald Clyde Jordan, 27, of Groton, a painter

An attack submarine with a shark-shaped hull, the Flasher is of the same type as the ill-fated Thresher which sank in the Atlantic April 10 while on a test dive

The fire broke out before noon in the Flasher's aft trim tank—a flooding tank in the ship's stern

The builder, the Electric Boat Division of the General Dynamic Corp., described the damage to the 279-feet long Flasher as negligible The fire was brought under control immediately The company said it expects to keep the scheduled launching date

Rep William L St Onge, D-Conn, who represents the district where the yard is located, said he will request an immediate investigation of the cause "and particularly whether any sabotage was involved"

Father Of Jet Flight, Dr. Von Karman Dies

Aachen, Germany (AP) — Dr. Theodore von Karman, 81, a Hungarian-born expert in aerodynamics and astronautics who helped speed American aviation into the jet age, died of a heart attack in an Aachen hospital Monday night.

His 82nd birthday was coming next Saturday.

Von Karman, whose home was in Pasadena, Calif., was acknowledged to be the father of faster-than-sound flight and some day may come to be known as the father of space propulsion.

President Kennedy presented him the first U.S. National Medal of Science in the White House rose garden last Feb. 18. Kennedy said he knew of no one else "who so completely represents all the areas involved in this medal—science. engineering and education."

The short, plump scientist replied that he hoped his work had shown "that the college professor is of some use."

"I will try to be grateful to this country," he said.

Flash Fire In Atomic Sub Claims Three

Groton, Conn. (AP)—A flash fire in the atomic submarine Flasher killed 3 men and injured two others Tuesday while they were working to meet a June 22 launching deadline.

The dead:

Lawrence William Stinson, 20, of Waterford, a chipper learner.

Joseph Stanley Baczenski, 26, of Coventry, R. I., a painter.

Donald Clyde Jordan, 27, of Groton, a painter.

An attack submarine with a shark-shaped hull, the Flasher is of the same type as the ill-fated Thresher which sank in the Atlantic April 10 while on a test dive.

The fire broke out before noon in the Flasher's aft trim tank—a flooding tank in the ship's stern.

The builder, the Electric Boat Division of the General Dynamic Corp., described the damage to the 279-feet long Flasher as negligible. The fire was brought under control immediately. The company said it expects to keep the scheduled launching date.

Rep. William L. St. Onge, D-Conn., who represents the district where the yard is located, said he will request an immediate investigation of the cause " and particularly whether any sabotage was involved."

FBI Questions Escapee About Bank Robbery

Lambert Edward Foster, 32, one of 3 escapees from Shawnee County Jail in Topeka, Kan., was being questioned Tuesday by Omaha FBI officials about last Friday's armed robbery of the Hallam Bank.

Agent-in-charge Thomas Gearty said Foster is not necessarily a suspect in the case, but he was being questioned since he and the others admitted being in the Hallam area at the time of the robbery or shortly thereafter.

Foster, along with William C. Brooks Jr., 16, and Marvin L. Thornton, 22, escaped from the Topeka jail Thursday after digging through the jail "bullpen" wall.

Face Recognized

Brooks and Thornton were caught Sunday night in Kansas. Foster was apprehended in Omaha Monday evening when a detective recognized his face from a picture.

Gearty said the FBI had a warrant charging Foster with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

Omaha Police Capt. J. L. Griffin said Foster told him he and the other escapees took a stolen car to Lincoln, drove to Wisconsin, then returned through Iowa.

The car was recovered Sunday in Topeka when Thornton was nabbed. He told authorities there the trio split up after the jailbreak.

Brooks denied any participation in the robbery and added they had stopped in Hallam only for haircuts.

Narcotic Eating

Brooks was quoted as telling officers that Foster began eating a narcotic substance taken from nasal inhalators while traveling through Nebraska.

Thornton told officials he and Brooks left Foster because he frightened them.

Brooks said Foster fired 3 shots into the car's back seat where the teen-ager was sitting, saying that a policeman was hiding in the trunk.

A preliminary hearing before a U.S. commissioner was continued Tuesday for Foster because a warrant and certified complaint had not yet arrived in Omaha from Topeka.

Veteran's Mother Ineligible For Aid

The mother of an unmarried, eligible veteran living with and entirely supported by that veteran is not eligible for aid from the Nebraska Veteran's Aid Fund, according to an attorney general's opinion released Tuesday.

The opinion noted that the law authorizes aid only to "wives or widows and their dependent children under 18 years of age."

The opinion was written by Assistant Atty. Gen. Richard Williams and approved by Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer. Leo J. Beck Sr., state veterans affairs director, requested it.

Morrison Says Meet Revitalized Democrats

Gov. Frank Morrison Tuesday called the results of a party meeting in Omaha last Saturday a "revitalizing" of the Nebraska Democratic Party.

"I have noted that the Democratic State Central Committee, which is the statutory governing agency of the Democratic Party, has voted to take over the management of the party in Nebraska.

"This is a very historic event . . . I hope this revitalizing can address itself, without reservation, to the tremendous objective of eliminating waste."

'Eliminate Waste'

The governor listed 5 areas of present waste "which the state Democratic Party must dedicate itself to eliminate" if the party is to thrive:

— mental and emotional effort put into meaningless quarrels with one another;

— failure to develop the maximum skill and abilities of all of our people through training, education and the development of the full potential of our children;

— failure to conserve all of our material resources such as soil and water;

— failure to develop full-employment opportunities;

— and failure to provide full markets and outlets for the productive use of our soil.

Boyle 'Mumbo Jumbo'

Informed of the governor's comments, Democratic National Committeeman Bernard J. Boyle said, "By this mumbo jumbo I see the mosquito season is with us again. You don't fight mosquitoes, you just brush them off.

"I see the governor is up to his old practices of avoiding the responsibilities of his office. Heretofore when he has been confronted with a problem that is his, he has appointed a committee. Now he's delegated these numerous duties to the Democratic Party.

"Maurine Biegert (Democratic national committeewoman) said she wanted to work — well, here's her chance. She can teach school, dig wells, build dams, and sell hamburgers and vegetables," Boyle concluded.

'JFK Expressing Policies To Enable U.S. To Cope With Population Growth'

Washington (UPI)—A leading advocate of population control' said Tuesday night President Kennedy is beginning to express policies which will enable the United States to cope effectively with "the grim realities of world population growth."

Kennedy's "wise leadership" was praised by William H. Draper Jr., San Francisco investment banker who directed a special study of U.S. foreign aid programs for President Eisenhower in 1950. Draper's committee set off a national controversy by recommending that the United States help underdeveloped countries who seek aid in dealing with population growth. Roman Catholic bishops sharply protested the Draper report, and President Eisenhower publicly rejected the recommendation.

"Fortunately, the present administration understands the population problem," Draper told a dinner meeting sponsored by the Planned Parenthood Federation of America. Draper is now serving as vice chairman of the federation's "World Population Emergency Campaign."

JFK Supported

He noted that Kennedy at a news conference two weeks ago "publicly supported increased research in fertility and agreed that this information should be made available to the peoples of the whole world, so that everyone can make their own judgment."

"This is what we have been advocating," said Draper. "This is a big milestone passed."

Draper said the President's public stand should help lower echelon federal officials to overcome their "skittishness" about the whole subject of birth control.

"Certainly, since the President has spoken, the National Institutes of Health should now be able — openly, forthrightly and with enthusiasm— to greatly expand their basic fertility research, and should also embark on a crash program to perfect the rhythm method," he said.

Wouldn't Object

Noting that the rhythm method is approved by the Catholic Church, Draper said that "No one would object" to a big NIH program to perfect it "and it could be a boon to the world."

Draper also proposed that any funds which Congress cuts from the foreign aid budget this year be applied to an international educational program aimed at helping underdeveloped countries "understand the problems that accompany rapid population growth" and to research aimed at finding "simple, effective, acceptable techniques" to control it.

"If we really want to reduce and some day wipe out the need for foreign economic aid," he said, "we had better give every possible help to countries like India in their own efforts to limit population growth."

He said any particular country would be able to get "on its own feet and off our back" much sooner "if its rate of population growth were cut in half."

'JFK Expressing Policies To Enable U.S. To Cope With Population Growth'

Washington (UPI)—A leading advocate of population control said Tuesday night President Kennedy is beginning to express policies which will enable the United States to cope effectively with "the grim realities of world population growth."

Kennedy's "wise leadership" was praised by William H. Draper Jr., San Francisco investment banker who directed a special study of U.S. foreign aid programs for President Eisenhower in 1959. Draper's committee set off a national controversy by recommending that the United States help underdeveloped countries who seek aid in dealing with population growth. Roman Catholic bishops sharply protested the Draper report, and President Eisenhower publicly rejected the recommendation.

"Fortunately, the present administration understands the population problem," Draper told a dinner meeting sponsored by the Planned Parenthood Federation of America. Draper is now serving as vice chairman of the federation's "World Population Emergency Campaign."

JFK Supported

He noted that Kennedy at a news conference two weeks ago "publicly supported increased research in fertility . . . and agreed that this information should be made available to the peoples of the whole world, so that everyone can make their own judgment."

"This is what we have been advocating," said Draper. "This is a big milestone passed."

Draper said the President's public stand should help lower echelon federal officials to overcome their "skittishness" about the whole subject of birth control.

"Certainly, since the President has spoken, the National Institutes of Health should now be able — openly, forthrightly and with enthusiasm—to greatly expand their basic fertility research, and should also embark on a crash program to perfect the rhythm method," he said.

Wouldn't Object

Noting that the rhythm method is approved by the Catholic Church, Draper said that "No one would object" to a big NIH program to perfect it "and it could be a boon to the world."

Draper also proposed that any funds which Congress cuts from the foreign aid budget this year be applied to an international educational program aimed at helping underdeveloped countries "understand the problems that accompany rapid population growth" and to research aimed at finding "simple, effective, acceptable techniques" to control it.

"If we really want to reduce and some day wipe out the need for foreign economic aid," he said, "we had better give every possible help to countries like India in their own efforts to limit population growth."

He said any particular country would be able to get "on its own feet and off our back" much sooner "if its rate of population growth were cut in half."

Duvalier Mad Tyrant--Bosch

. . . DOMINICAN HIKES DEMANDS FOR SETTLEMENT

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic (AP) — President Juan Bosch denounced Haiti's President Francois Duvalier Tuesday night as a mad tyrant and stiffened Dominican demands for a settlement of the Dominican-Haitian crisis.

Following up repeated warnings that the Dominican Republic may resort to force, Bosch indicated thousands of Dominican troops backed by superior air and sea support will remain poised on the Haitian frontier until Duvalier's regime yields to Dominican terms.

No Deadline

In an evening radio-television address to the nation, Bosch put no deadline on demands but said that if the United States considers the Haitian situation grave enough to evacuate Americans, "we shall continue to think the problem is even more serious for us."

"The situation is not easy," President Bosch said. "We don't know what will happen but we know that Duvalier has killed many people and terrorized many people and has caused several bloodbaths. We have to be careful and vigilant."

In the midst of trouble at home caused by a riot-sparking strike of Dominican government employes, Bosch disclosed that his government would insist that the Duvalier regime issue safe conduct passes out of Haiti for all 22 Haitian oppositionists who had taken refuge in the Dominican Embassy in Port Au Prince.

The Haiti regime has promised an inter-American peace team last week that it would issue such passes' to 15 of the 22, but has not yet done so. Bosch's government had indicated earlier that it would be satisfied with safe conduct passes for the 15, with the 7 other Haitian oppositionists put under the protection of the Colombian Embassy.

Bosch told the Organization of American States (OAS) earlier in the day that the Dominican Republic might resort to force because Haiti "is carrying out aggression" against the Dominican Embassy in Port Au Prince.

He charged that Haitian guns and soldiers hidden in trees still menaced the embassy, which now is under the Colombian flag following the break in diplomatic relations between Santo Domingo and Port Au Prince.

Special Meet

The OAS summoned a special meeting in Washington Wednesday to adopt measures aimed at solving the crisis. The U.N. Security Council also planned to meet in New York Wednesday to hear a Haitian complain charging Dominican aggression.

In his address to the Dominican people, Bosch said the Dominican Republic rushed troops to the Haiti frontier because "we are treating with an irresponsible regime that is not a government. It is tyrannical."

Bosch said the Haitians in the Dominican Embassy in Port Au Prince are "awaiting death which may come at any time of day or night. We have to protect these men. Not 15, but 22.

"Among them is Lt. Benoit, who received asylum March 25. The next day his mother, his father and two children and a houseworker were killed and fire set to their house."

Lt. Francisco Benoit is among the 7 Haitian oppositionists in the Dominican Embassy who are barred by the Duvalier regime from leaving Haiti. The Duvalier regime has charged that he took part in an attack on Duvalier's two daughters April 26 in which 3 bodyguards were killed. Bosch has said that Haitian troops subsequently invaded the embassy in an effort to seize him and others.

Bosch expressed hope that the OAS could resolve the crisis.

"But we know our job," he added. "We sleep with one eye open and one closed. We are on the border in defense of the interests of the Dominican people."

Order Evacuation Of U.S. Dependents

Washington (AP) — The State Department Tuesday ordered an airlift evacuation of U.S. officials' families from Haiti and urged private American citizens also to leave the troubled country.

Extra Pan American Airways flights — up to 6, or more if needed — will start ferrying the 220 dependents of U.S. officials from Port Au Prince to Miami Wednesday morning. The department said it does not yet know how many of the 1,300 non-official Americans, mostly businessmen, will choose to depart too.

The approximately 180 U.S. diplomats and military mission members are to remain in Port Au Prince despite cool relations between Washington and the dictatorship of Francois Duvalier.

Deterioration

State Department authorities said they decided on the evacuation Monday, with President Kennedy's approval, because of "the continued deterioration of the situation in Haiti and the difficulty of insuring the lives and safety of U.S. citizens."

But they said the withdrawal was due to the continued internal dangers under Duvalier's terror rule — rather than because of any mounting prospect of invasion from the neighboring Dominican Republic.

The threat of a Dominican attack, in fact, appeared to have eased with a shift in focus of the Dominican-Haitian dispute from the military to the diplomatic arena.

Special Meet

The Organization of American States, which has sent a fact-finding commission to investigate the dispute on the spot, called a special meeting here Wednesday to adopt measures aimed at solving the crisis.

Informed sources said the session was called to broaden the commission's power in Haiti so it can make suggestions for settlement. The sources said the commission's present powers are so limited it is unable even to hear charges by Haiti against the Dominican Republic.

U.S. Claims OAS Should Handle Haiti

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — The United States declared Tuesday the Organization of American States (OAS) should deal with the Haitian-Dominican crisis now rather than the U.N. Security Council.

U.S. officials made their position known in advance of an urgent meeting of the 11-nation council Wednesday The session was requested by Haiti on the grounds that Dominican Republic actions threaten war in the Caribbean.

It appeared that the council meeting would simply put the Haitian complaint on the docket and then decide to await the outcome of further attempts by the OAS to resolve the crisis.

Haiti's Foreign Minister Rene Chalmers was en route to New York to appear before the council to press his government's charges that President Juan Bosch of the Dominican Republic is threatening Haiti with aggression.

A full-scale debate would amount to bypassing the OAS, regarded by the United States as a regional organization having first priority on the issue.

A spokesman for the U.S. delegation released a statement from Washington saying the problem is being handled effectively by the OAS council there, and adding: "we believe, that under these circumstances, the Organization of American States should continue to handle the matter."

PIN-WORMS
1 OUT OF 3 DOES

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms...ugly parasites that medical experts say infest 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Three-Way Railroad Merger Talks Not Bearing Fruit Yet

From Press Reports

Talks aimed at merger of the Union Pacific, Rock Island and Southern Pacific railroads are continuing, but spokesmen Tuesday gave no signs the negotiations are about to bear fruit.

In New York, a spokesman pointed out that the 3-way amalgamation talks have been going on since last fall.

Rock Island officials in Chicago had no comment about reports their railroad and the UP had virtually reached agreement. One spokesman, referring to the 3-way merger study, said: "I assume it is still underway."

Board 'Abreast'

A UP director in Omaha, W. B. Millard Jr., said:

"Board members have been kept abreast of developments in the merger talks. We have not been advised that anything is about to happen. And we have not been advised that anything is not about to happen."

Wall Street sources added nothing to suggestions that an early merger might be in the offing, although reports circulating in the financial community said the UP board would meet soon to consider a specific proposal for exchanging stocks.

Millard noted that UP directors will meet later this month in Portland, Ore., but he said the proposed merger is not on the agenda.

New System

If the merger were agreed to and approved, it would create a new system with lines running from Chicago to Los Angeles. It would give the 9,705-mile UP a direct line into Chicago. The railroad's main eastern terminals are now Omaha and Kansas City.

The Rock Island, operating principally in the Midwest, has lines running as far west as Denver and Tucumcari, N.M., where its top passenger train moves onto Southern Pacific tracks and runs to the West Coast.

The Rock Island, with 7,849 miles, has approximately $496 million in assets. The UP's assets exceed $1.5 billion.

Omaha Supt., Sen. Marvel In ETV Clash

Sen. Richard D. Marvel of Hastings said he disagrees with a statement by Omaha Superintendent of Schools Dr. Paul A. Miller regarding implementation of educational television (ETV) in Nebraska.

Miller urged the Legislature to reject two bills setting up a statewide ETV network in favor of a "complete restudy."

Marvel said he feels "it is quite important that some action be taken to implement a statewide TEV network this session. We need to start sometime and that time is now."

Whole State

An ETV network, Marvel said, "should take into consideration the needs of the whole state."

Miller said he feels the bills, LB666 and LB667, give adequate attention to geographical coverage, but inadequate attention to the needs of people in various parts of the state.

Marvel is the prinicpal sponsor of the ETV bills.

Sen. Ross Rasmussen of Hooper, chairman of the Education Committee, which is holding the ETV bills, said his committee will act on the bills this week.

Water Burns Bus Driver

A 27-year-old Lincoln City Lines bus driver suffered first and second degree burns on his chest, face and arms Tuesday afternoon.

James Woods, of 2400 J, was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital and released.

Police said Woods was checking the water tank in the rear of his bus when he inadvertently pressed a valve which spewed hot water on him.

Fire Damages Car, Garage

Fire Department officials Tuesday were investigating the cause of a fire that did "considerable damage" to a garage owned by Louis Demma, 3020 So. 40th.

A neighbor said the alarm was phoned in by an unidentified employee of the telephone company. He saw smoke and flames in the garage attached to the Demma home, and went to the neighbor's home to use the phone.

Firemen found 4-year-old Louis Jr., in the basement of the home watching TV and "one of them carried him out the front door", said the neighbor.

A car in the Demma garage was scorched and burned by the blaze.

Lord Children Custody Fight May End Today

Des Moines (UPI)—A court hearing in a custody fight between two sets of grandparents over the children of a convicted Lincoln wife slayer recessed late Tuesday and was expected to wind up Wednesday.

District Judge Wade P. Clarke said the hearing would resume at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday and would have to end by 9 a.m. when he is scheduled for a jury trial in another case.

Clarke said only two more witnesses are scheduled to appear in the custody case.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Lord, Bondurant, are seeking custody of the two children of their son, James E. Lord. The younger Lord is serving a life sentence in the Nebraska Penitentiary for the fatal stabbing of his wife, Suzanne, 21, in their Lincoln apartment in Feb. 26.

The children, James E. Lord II, 2, and Keith Lord, 5 months, have been staying with their mother's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin S. Grove, Ankeny, since Mrs. Lord was slain.

Happy Days Are Here For Suburbia's Younger Set

NORTHEAST HEIGHTS

The circus has come to Lincoln, and, no doubt Suburbia's younger generation is trying everything imaginable to be "especially good"—for a week, that is

All of a sudden junior woke up at the crack of dawn to mow the lawn that you have been asking him to do for three weeks, sis has the dishes done before everyone is finished eating, and the younger members of the family are busy picking up their toys and going to bed without an argument

Although we realize that this pleasant state of affairs will only last a week, it is always circus time in Suburbia with all the activity that is taking place

Entertaining several members of their family last week from Lakeview, Iowa, were Mr and Mrs Bernard Buckley.

Arriving last Wednesday were Mr and Mrs Buckley's daughter and son in law and their two children, Mr and Mrs Dennis Knopik and Kevin and Lynn The Knopiks will be spending several days with the Buckleys' before leaving for their new home in Casper, Wyo

Circus or no circus there is always time for the monthly bridge group

Meeting at the home of Mrs Jim Folsom for an evening of dessert bridge were Mrs Harold Staberg, Mrs W F Staberg, Mrs Ed Pavelka, Mrs Howard Luedtke, Mrs Ray Anderson, and Mrs Dave Schuman

CORNER TERRACE

Mrs Darrell Karr was hostess last Sunday when she entertained several guests at a bridal shower for Miss Bonnie Hans who will become the bride of Kenneth Schultz on June 8

Among the guests attending the shower were Mrs. William Schultz, mother of the bridegroom, and Miss Hans' mother and three sisters, Mrs Arnold Hans and Marlene, Betty, and Diane

Although not everyone is able to pack their bags and go to California, there is a way to bring California right into your home Last week, Mr and Mrs Don Hubbard entertained several members of their family when their daughter and son-in-law Mr and Mrs Clarence Holben and Daphne, who arrived recently from California, set up the movie projector and showed several scenes of their sunny state Also there for the evening were Mr. and Mrs Hubbard's son and daughter-in-law and children, Mr and Mrs Fred Hersh and Dianne, Lori, and Danny of Omaha

A new little lady in the neighborhood that we haven't mentioned before is Miss Rebecha Jean Hansen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Buddie Hansen Rebecha also has a sister, Jan, and a brother, Larry. Her maternal grandparents are Mr and Mrs John Weber, and her paternal grandparents are Mr and Mrs Chris Hansen, both of Lincoln

BERLENE HEIGHTS

Also learned this week that Mr. and Mrs Fred Burke have recently returned from a three-month vacation in Los Angeles, Calif. The Burkes spent the three month period visiting friends and relatives in and near Los Angeles

Mr and Mrs Burke also did some entertaining recently when Mrs Elza Roach of Kearney spent several days with them

We Hear That

Around The Town

If we did anything so ridiculous as to give an award for a "nobody stayed home" day, yesterday would have won it hands down The brides-elect weren't home, their mothers weren't home—the young matrons weren't home, and neither were the older matrons—But still we managed to pick up a little news here and there—

We learned that Mrs Konstantin Boicos (Bridget Watson) and her young son, Christopher, will be leaving on Thursday evening to return home after spending several months as the guests of Mrs Boicos' parents, Mr and Mrs B Frank Watson

During Mrs Boicos—and Christopher's—stay in the States their address has been changed They came to Lincoln from Paris, but their homecoming will be in Athens, where Mr Boicos now is residing

Mrs Boicos and her son will leave Thursday evening and will sail from New York City on Saturday

Two guests leave—one comes—We should say that Miss Margo Hunt, daughter of Mr and Mrs E M Hunt, is COMING since her arrival is not scheduled until May 29—just a day ahead of Memorial Day That means, of course, that she will have a long weekend in Lincoln, and will be here to help celebrate the birthday anniversary of her mother on June 1 As you may already know, Miss Hunt will come from New York City where she has been careering the past few years

And someone told us that Mrs John R Doyle, recently elected president of the Lincoln Junior League, and Mrs Robert Sherwood left on Sunday for the Broadmoor, Hotel, Colorado Springs — and the annual conference of Junior Leagues of America

NORTHEAST HEIGHTS

The circus has come to Lincoln, and, no doubt, Suburbia's younger generation is trying everything imaginable to be "especially good"—for a week, that is.

All of a sudden junior woke up at the crack of dawn to mow the lawn that you have been asking him to do for three weeks, sis has the dishes done before everyone is finished eating, and the younger members of the family are busy picking up their toys and going to bed without an argument.

Although we realize that this pleasant state of affairs will only last a week, it is always circus time in Suburbia with all the activity that is taking place.

Entertaining several members of their family last week from Lakeview, Iowa, were Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Buckley.

Arriving last Wednesday were Mr. and Mrs. Buckley's daughter and son-in-law and their two children, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Knopik and Kevin and Lynn. The Knopiks' will be spending several days with the Buckleys' before leaving for their new home in Casper, Wyo.

Circus or no circus there is always time for the monthly bridge group.

COTNER TERRACE

Mrs. Darrell Karr was hostess last Sunday when she entertained several guests at a bridal shower for Miss Bonnie Hans who will become the bride of Kenneth Schultz on June 8.

Among the guests attending the shower were Mrs. William Schultz, mother of the bridegroom, and Miss Hans' mother and three sisters, Mrs. Arnold Hans and Marlene, Betty, and Diane.

Although not everyone is able to pack their bags and go to California, there is a way to bring California right into your home. Last week, Mr. and Mrs. Don Hubbard entertained several members of their family when their daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Holben and Daphne, who arrived recently from California, set up the movie projector and showed several scenes of their sunny state. Also there for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard's son and daughter-in-law and children, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hersh and Dianne, Lori, and Danny of Omaha.

A new little lady in the neighborhood that we haven't mentioned before is Miss Rebecha Jean Hansen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Buddie Hansen. Rebecha also has a sister, Jan, and a brother, Larry. Her maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Weber, and her paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Chris Hansen, both of Lincoln.

BERLENE HEIGHTS

Also learned this week that Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burke have recently returned from a three-month vacation in Los Angeles, Calif. The Burkes spent the three month period visiting friends and relatives in and near Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Burke also did some entertaining recently when Mrs. Elza Roach of Kearney spent several days with them.

Opening lead — king of diamonds.

This hand occurred in a duplicate pair tournament, but the principle it features would be equally applicable in rubber bridge.

North elected to sacrifice against five diamonds, hoping South would go down only one for minus 200 points and thus prevent East-West from scoring 400 points for making five diamonds.

The idea was good, and should have been rewarded, but South misguessed the trump situation and wound up going down two — 500 points — for a poor score.

West led a diamond and then shifted to a low club. East took the ace and returned a club, the jack losing to the king. West returned the jack of hearts.

Declarer had lost three tricks and now had to make the rest to avoid a deadly score of minus 500. He won the heart with the king, cashed the ace of spades, ruffed a diamond in dummy, and then led a spade, on which East followed low.

The question now was whether to finesse or play for the drop of the queen. After considerable thought, South guessed wrong and went down two.

It is true, mathematically, that declarer is better off in the long run to play for the drop rather than finesse when he is missing Q-x-x-x of a suit. However, this was a special case where South should have finessed.

The reason becomes evident if declarer, at the crucial point, assumes that West started with Q-x. This would be the only justification for playing the king.

However, such an assumption is not valid because it would mean that West could not have made five diamonds (losing two spades and a heart), and this in turn would mean that minus 200 points would lead to a bad score.

Declarer therefore must assume that the spades are divided 3-1, and consequently must finesse to justify the sacrifice bid. He is bound to do badly if he plays for the drop, and can get a good score only if he chooses to finesse.

Open House

Mr. and Mrs. Virg Beckman will mark their 25th wedding anniversary on Sunday, May 12, when they will entertain at an open house at their home.

Their friends and family members are asked to call between the hours of 2 o'clock and 5 o'clock without further invitation.

WHY GROW OLD?

Josephine Lowman

Women write to me from all over the country to tell me that my 9-Day Reducing Diet seems to be as true a harbinger of spring as the first robin is. In order to get ready for summer each year, they use it to lose the few pounds they gained during the winter.

While the ideal procedure is to change our eating habits so that we keep the same perfect weight during our lifetime, few of us achieve this state. Therefore, it IS important to go after that first five to 10 pounds before they multiply. A short rapid reducing diet is a pleasant way to do it.

I am here each spring with the menus for nine days, which will help you shed from five to 10 pounds in just nine days.

Here are the menus for Thursday:

BREAKFAST
One poached egg on toast
Black coffee

LUNCHEON
One medium hamburger cake (cooked without butter and made of lean meat)
Celery sticks
One glass skimmed milk

DINNER
Small lean steak
One-half cup cauliflower
One baked potato (No butter. Medium sized potato has only about 90 calories).
One orange
One glass skimmed milk before bedtime.

Dble

Opening lead — king of diamonds.

This hand occurred in a duplicate pair tournament, but the principle it features would be equally applicable in rubber bridge.

North elected to sacrifice against five diamonds, hoping South would go down only one for minus 200 points and thus prevent East-West from scoring 400 points for making five diamonds.

The idea was good, and should have been rewarded, but South misguessed the trump situation and wound up going down two — 500 points — for a poor score.

West led a diamond and then shifted to a low club. East took the ace and returned a club, the jack losing to the king. West returned the jack of hearts.

Declarer had lost three tricks and now had to make the rest to avoid a deadly score of minus 500. He won the heart with the king, cashed the ace of spades, ruffed a diamond in dummy, and then led a spade, on which East followed low.

The question now was whether to finesse or play for the drop of the queen. After considerable thought, South guessed wrong and went down two.

It is true, mathematically, that declarer is better off in the long run to play for the drop rather than finesse when he is missing Q-x-x-x of a suit. However, this was a special case where South should have finessed.

The reason becomes evident if declarer, at the crucial point, assumes that West started with Q-x. This would be the only justification for playing the king.

However, such an assumption is not valid because it would mean that West could not have made five diamonds (losing two spades and a heart), and this in turn would mean that minus 200 points would lead to a bad score.

Declarer therefore must assume that the spades are divided 3-1, and consequently must finesse to justify the sacrifice bid. He is bound to do badly if he plays for the drop, and can get a good score only if he chooses to finesse.

WHY GROW OLD?

Josephine Lowman

Women write to me from all over the country to tell me that my 9-Day Reducing Diet seems to be as true a harbinger of spring as the first robin is. In order to get ready for summer each year, they use it to lose the few pounds they gained during the winter.

While the ideal procedure is to change our eating habits so that we keep the same perfect weight during our lifetime, few of us achieve this state. Therefore, it IS important to go after that first five to 10 pounds before they multiply. A short rapid reducing diet is a pleasant way to do it.

I am here each spring with the menus for nine days, which will help you shed from five to 10 pounds in just nine days.

Here are the menus for Thursday:

NU Budget 'Way Too High'

. . . SEN. BRIDENBAUGH CONCLUDES

By WILLIAM B. KETTER
United Press International

The vice chairman of the Legislature's Budget Committee said Tuesday he feels the University of Nebraska 1963-65 budget request is "way too high."

Bridenbaugh

Sen. Hal Bridenbaugh of Dakota City said he reached this conclusion after listening to 6 days of testimony in support of the $38.1 million general fund request.

"Generally," Bridenbaugh said in an interview, "I personally feel the request is way too high, but just where it should be is a matter that will be determined after I have studied the departmental figures more."

A Veteran Thorn

Bridenbaugh, a veteran member of the Budget Committee, has always been a thorn in the side of university spending hopes.

"I just don't believe in wasting money and unless I am sure every penny is going to a needed cause, I don't intend to give my stamp of approval," Bridenbaugh said.

Bridenbaugh acknowledged that "some increase" is necessary in the NU budget, "but not $10 million." The university was appropriated $28 million from the property tax-supported general fund by the last Legislature. The present biennium ends June 30.

The university, Bridenbaugh said, "is progressing and, of course, its enrollment is ballooning. In order that this progress be continued and also that education needs are met, I feel some increase is necessary — that which can be justified."

Pleasing Presentation

The Dakota County lawmaker said he was pleased with the university's presentation of its request.

Bridenbaugh said he thought university officials detailed their budget "more thoroughly" than in past sessions.

"They gave us a deeper insight into the problems which are very important to know when dealing with the taxpayers' money," he said.

Also, Bridenbaugh added, "the university took a better attitude toward the budget."

The committee is expected to reach decision on the various spending requests by the end of next week, after which it will start drafting the all-important budget bill for presentation to the Legislature as a whole.

Insurance Tax Boost Faces Attempt To Kill

A revenue bill which would raise an additional $200,000 annually from a boost in the tax on gross premiums of domestic insurance companies faces a kill attempt Wednesday.

The measure, LB117, was returned to general file for reconsideration on a 22-16 vote.

Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, who proposed reconsideration, said he will attempt to kill the bill.

LB117 barely surviveda previous kill motion Thursday on an 18-20 count, and was advanced from general file on a 20-16 vote.

It would raise the premium tax from 4 to 6 mills.

Higher Rates

Warner argued that the tax boost will be "passed on to policyholders in the form of higher rates." It will also damage the competitive position of domestic companies, he said.

Sen. Michael Russillo of Omaha said the bill ought to be killed so as to "give the insurance industry a chance to develop."

The tax boost will cause problems for Blue Cross and Blue Shield, Sen. T. C. Reeves of Central City contended.

But Revenue Chairman Jules Burbach of Crofton termed the boost "a nominal increase."

The Legislature has "an obligation to face up to the facts and secure the revenue" necessary to enact needed spending bills, Burbach said.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, introducer of LB117, called the increase "a pittance," one which "they can't spread thin enough to pass on."

Foreign companies, he noted, pay 2% tax or 5 times as much as domestic companies.

The insurance industry is "opposed to everything so far as taxes are concerned." Carpenter said. "It lacks elements of good citizenship."

Defer Parole For Omaha Murderer

Action on a possible parole or commutation for convicted murderer Joe Beades of Omaha was deferred indefinitely Tuesday by the State Board of Pardons.

Beades, 38, was sentenced to life May 2. 1945, after a Douglas District Court jury convicted him of second degree murder for killing Harrison Dunn in Omaha during a robbery attempt.

The board granted 8 paroles Tuesday, including one to Bonnea M. Smith of Gering, in the Women's Reformatory at York on a forgery conviction.

Two Commuted

Two other inmates at the State Penitentiary had their sentences commuted, but are being held on detainers to answer charges against them elsewhere.

One other Penitentiary inmake scheduled to be heard Tuesday, Jake W. Kasselder of Ericson, died late last month after his case was set for consideration. He had been serving a 3-year sentence on a conviction by Hall County District Court of breaking and entering. He was 54.

The board will consider State Reformatory cases Wednesday.

TOURISM REVENUE STAMP PLAN GETS OK

The Salaries and Claims Committee Tuesday gave 7-0 approval to LB784 which is aimed at raising revenue for promotion of tourism.

Sen. LeRoy Babensky of St. Paul prepared the proposal. It allows the tourism promotion agency to design and sell stamps for placement on brochures, pamphlets and other publications distributed by those who benefit from tourism such as motels, hotels and restaurants.

Mel Steen, Nebraska Game Commission director, said the stamps probably would sell for 5 cents or less. He said a "wild guess" was that revenue to be raised would range from a minimum of $5,000 to a maximum of $50,000.

Also advanced 7-0 was LB786, Sen. William Brandt's bill which would allow small villages a means of financing certain street improvements.

Northern Nebraska Prairie Fire Quenched

Nenzel (AP)—Volunteer fire fighters early Tuesday brought under control a fire which began on Nebraska National Forest land and raced across 3,000 to 4,000 acres of prairie.

Twice the 75 to 100 volunteers thought they had stopped the blaze, but each time it broke out again.

Ranger Morris Snider at the National Forest said lightning apparently started the fire about 3 p.m. Monday. It was brought under control 13 hours later. Only a small amount of timber was involved.

There were no injuries and there were no buildings destroyed.

Firemen from Merriman, Kilgore, Cody, Valentine and the Fort Niobrara Wildlife Refuge battled the flames.

Sidney Woman Is On Probation

North Platte (AP)—Federal Judge Robert Van Pelt placed Vivian L. Maul of Sidney on 3 years federal probation after she had pleaded guilty to 3 embezzlement counts. Three other counts were dismissed by the government.

On each of the counts she was accused of taking amounts of money of less than $100 while working as head bookkeeper for the American National Bank at Sidney.

Hicks To Head Seward's VFW

Seward — The Gerald Coffey Post 4755 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars has chosen Gene Hicks its commander.

Other elected officers are Arnold Niederschmidt, senior vice commander, David Ost, junior vice commander, Wilmar Schoepf, judge advocate, D. D. Hodgkin of Goehner, quartermaster, Ray Niemann, surgeon, Clement (Bim) Foster, chaplain.

Farm Price Index Goes Up 2%

The mid-April Nebraska all farm commodity price index was 247, according to the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

This was up two per cent from the mid March index of 241, but down 3% from the 254 of a year earlier.

The increase from last month reflects the price rise of wheat and corn and all meat animals except hogs. In comparison with a year ago, prices were lower for hogs, cattle, calves, milk cows, wholesale and retail milk, dry edible beans, and potatoes, but the change in the index was moderated by higher prices for most grains, sheep and lambs.

At 263, the livestock and livestock products index was 6 points above last month, but 15 points below a year previous. The all crops index of 203 was 3 points larger than a month earlier, and 15 points above April, 1962.

Northern Nebraska Prairie Fire Quenched

Nenzel (AP)—Volunteer fire fighters early Tuesday brought under control a fire which began on Nebraska National Forest land and raced across 3,000 to 4,000 acres of prairie.

Twice the 75 to 100 volunteers thought they had stopped the blaze, but each time it broke out again.

Ranger Morris Snider at the National Forest said lightning apparently started the fire about 3 p.m. Monday. It was brought under control 13 hours later. Only a small amount of timber was involved.

There were no injuries and there were no buildings destroyed.

Firemen from Merriman, Kilgore, Cody, Valentine and the Fort Niobrara Wildlife Refuge battled the flames.

Sidney Woman Is On Probation

North Platte (AP)—Federal Judge Robert Van Pelt placed Vivian L. Maul of Sidney on 3 years federal probation after she had pleaded guilty to 3 embezzlement counts. Three other counts were dismissed by the government.

On each of the counts she was accused of taking amounts of money of less than $100 while working as head bookkeeper for the American National Bank at Sidney.

Hicks To Head Seward's VFW

Seward — The Gerald Coffey Post 4755 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars has chosen Gene Hicks its commander.

Other elected officers are Arnold Niederschmidt, senior vice commander; David Ost, junior vice commander; Wilmar Schoepf, judge advocate; D. D. Hodgkin of Goehner, quartermaster; Ray Niemann, surgeon; Clement (Bim) Foster, chaplain.

Farm Price Index Goes Up 2%

The mid-April Nebraska all farm commodity price index was 247, according to the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

This was up two per cent from the mid-March index of 241, but down 3% from the 254 of a year earlier.

The increase from last month reflects the price rise of wheat and corn and all meat animals except hogs. In comparison with a year ago, prices were lower for hogs, cattle, calves, milk cows, wholesale and retail milk, dry edible beans, and potatoes, but the change in the index was moderated by higher prices for most grains, sheep and lambs.

At 263, the livestock and livestock products index was 6 points above last month, but 15 points below a year previous. The all crops index of 203 was 3 points larger than a month earlier, and 15 points above April, 1962.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to tell you your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. Booming Start

Fonner Park's 25 day racing season at Grand Island draws to a close today and the 3rd City's track certainly got the Nebraska horse racing season off to a booming start

Fonner surpassed the previous record for mutuel handles with Tuesday's take and anything added today—the final day—is only frosting on an already rich cake

The old record of $4,150 327 was set last year—the first time the handle had exceeded $4 million, but with racing booming as a sport in Nebraska it is unlikely that the total betting at Fonner will ever fall below that mark

And with a good turnout today the attendance total for the 25 dates will go over the 100,000 mark

Betting Average

This would figure out to slightly more than an average of $40 bet by each paid admission to the Fonner track—a lofty figure when you consider that many people won t bet more than $2 on each race, but not so lofty when you stop to think of the big spenders who pull out the big wad each trip to the window

For those who came out ahead there is the natural satisfaction But for those who lost there is still a consolation

Racing in Nebraska, being non profit, does a great deal toward providing funds for county fairs, stock shows and many other educational benefits as well as paying a goodly share of taxes

The tax on pari mutuel betting provided approximately $750,000 in revenue last year, and this year with the one per cent increase in tax plus the increased betting activity as evidenced by the Fonner record, considerably more will be put into the state's piggy bank

Increased Interest

One need look no further than Fonner to note the increased interest in plucking a pound or two of silver down on some pony's nose

Today's card closes out the 10th year of racing at Fonner Park and the number of racing dates has increased steadily since that opening day in 1954 And along with the added number of racing dates, there, of course, has been a steady increase in the money pushed through the little windows

The opening session at Fonner in 1954 lasted only 13 racing days and only $1,040,814 was bet As the season was increased—first to 18 days and gradually to the present 25—the mutuel handle began to climb—to $2 million, then $3 million and finally last year topping the $4 million mark for the first time

Then this year came and the $4 million mutuel total was achieved on the 23rd day of racing Monday

Records Fall

Attendance and betting records began falling right at the start at Fonner this year with the 4,925 who turned out for the opening day to bet $229,000 setting records in both divisions for a first day

The old single day record of $271,519 set in 1962 lasted only 3 days into the 1963 season before being snowed under by a mutuel handle of $273,560 on the first Saturday of this season

Two weeks later on April 20, 6,694 racing enthusiasts showed up and brought plenty of money along—spending $299,386 of the filthy green stuff for a record that will last at least until next year—but don't bet on any more than that

Next Stop—Ak-Sar-Ben

For those bettors who still have a few dollars left in the old sock, the next stop will be Ak-Sar-Ben which begins its 40 day season Friday

And if Sunday's open house attendance of 8,150 is any indication, standing room may be at a premium at the large Ak-Sar-Ben track

Louis Eilken, racing secretary and handicapper at the Omaha track, anticipates the greatest collection of Thoroughbreds in the history of Ak Sar Ben

Some of the nation's top stables have been lured by the $1,211,000 in purses and the attraction of a minimum purse of $2,500 and a daily feature purse of at least $5,000

The first weekend of activity at Ak Sar-Ben offers the $10,000 added Beef State Handicap for 3 year olds and up at 6 furlongs and the $10,000 added Ak Sar Ben Princess Handicap Saturday for 3 year olds at 5½ furlongs

Good Bye Fonner Hello Ak-Sar-Ben

Lincoln High Gains Berth In State Baseball Tourney

. . . LINKS BLAST ROCKETS, 13-2

By CONDE SARGENT
Prep Sports Writer

A familiar name in high school baseball will return to the state tournament

Lincoln High, 5 times winner of the big tourney, unloaded on Northeast, 13 2, Tuesday to win the Capital City Class A district

The Links and 3 Omaha district winners will play in the state meet May 20 21 at Omaha's Municipal Stadium

In its first state tourney action since joining an intercity Conference round-robin circuit in 1959, Lincoln High tripped Pius X in first round district play before belting the Rockets Tuesday

The victory, abbreviated to 5 innings with the 10-run rule, avenged an earlier 15 5 loss to Northeast

Lincoln High hurler Rich Schwabauer didn't pitch that earlier contest He played the outfield His perch on the mound makes a big difference in this Lincoln High team

He 5 hit the Rockets with Stan Grell s home run the best hit of the day It cleared the left centerfield fence at Elks Field and one hopped across Normal Blvd

Mound chores weren't so smooth for NE hurlers Les Tyrrell and Jerry Motz, however

The 6 men Tyrrell got out all went via strikeout but a 3 run homer over the Elks' Chinese wall in center by Mickey Zangari staked the Links to a 3 0 lead

Following Grell's long shot, the roof came in on Northeast in the 3rd Lincoln High scored 9 times as Motz replaced Tyrrell with 3 on and none out

Key blows in the inning were

—two run single by centerfielder Alex Walters

—duplicate single by Dennis Barber

—and a grand slam homer by Schwabauer, his 4th circuit clout of the season

The outcome left Northeast and Lincoln High on an even keel for the city championship in baseball Their only loss in intra city play was to each other

Pesek-Gilbert Combo Beaten

. . . DECISION MEETS WITH DISAGREEMENT

A vehement protest by Jack Pesek and tag team partner Doug Gilbert went to no avail Tuesday night as Waldo Von Erich teamed with Duke Hoffman to gain an unpopular decision over the Pesek Gilbert combo at Pershing Auditorium

With the match standing at one fall each Gilbert and Hoffman collided in the center of the ring with both wrestlers going to the mat

Von Erich then entered the ring and dragged Hoffman to his corner where a tag was made and Von Erich then pinned Gilbert

Pesek and Gilbert protested that the tag was illegal but the protests to referee Tom Novak went in vain

In preliminary action Ernie Dusek whipped Bill Taylor, Bob Managoff defeated Pepe Gonzalez and Guy Mitchell bopped Bob Boyer

Pesek announced the next Lincoln show would be held Memorial Day, May 30

-RUSSIAN ROULETTE-

College Baseball Playoffs To Begin

Tucson, Ariz (AP)—College baseball's version of Russian roulette begins this week

That's what it amounts to as playoffs begin leading to Omaha and the annual NCAA championships starting June 10

Kicking off the action Wednesday in a best of 3 series are two Southeastern Conference teams, Mississippi (18 5) and Auburn (15 7) Mississippi won the Western Division title and Auburn defeated highly-rated Florida to win Eastern honors

The Ole Miss-Auburn winner will step out of the frying pan and into the fire. Probably waiting in the District 3 playoff wings will be Wake Forest (21 6) of the Atlantic Coast Conference and West Virginia (19 1) of the Southern Conference, a pair of nationally rated teams

The situation looks in the other districts

District 1—Holy Cross (5 1) and Connecticut (9 5) look the best

District 2—St Johns of New York (17 3) and Ithaca (13 3) are the top contenders

District 4—Western Michigan (13-1) of the Mid-American Conference is strong Ohio State (19 8) looks like the Big 10's best Among independents, Notre Dame (15 3) has a veteran team

District 5—No 1 ranked Missouri (16 4) appears to be tops

District 6—Texas (15 4-1) and Texas Christian University (18 4) are battling for the Southwest Conference pennant

District 7—Arizona (27 13) seems to be the best Western Athletic Conference bet Colorado State College and Air Force Academy may figure in playoff plans

District 8—No 2 rated Oregon has rolled to an impressive 19-2 record But before the district entry is chosen Los Angeles State (26 8), Pepperdine (21 5), UCLA (22 13) and USC (24 13 1) may become involved

Booming Start

Fonner Park's 25-day racing season at Grand Island draws to a close today and the 3rd City's track certainly got the Nebraska horse racing season off to a booming start.

Fonner surpassed the previous record for mutuel handles with Tuesday's take and anything added today—the final day—is only frosting on an already rich cake.

The old record of $4,150,327 was set last year—the first time the handle had exceeded $4 million, but with racing booming as a sport in Nebraska it is unlikely that the total betting at Fonner will ever fall below that mark.

And with a good turnout today the attendance total for the 25 dates will go over the 100,000 mark.

Betting Average

This would figure out to slightly more than an average of $40 bet by each paid admission to the Fonner track—a lofty figure when you consider that many people won't bet more than $2 on each race, but not so lofty when you stop to think of the big spenders who pull out the big wad each trip to the window.

For those who came out ahead there is the natural satisfaction. But for those who lost there is still a consolation.

Racing in Nebraska, being non-profit, does a great deal toward providing funds for county fairs, stock shows and many other educational benefits as well as paying a goodly share of taxes.

The tax on pari-tutuel betting provided approximately $750,000 in revenue last year, and this year with the one per cent increase in tax plus the increased betting activity as evidenced by the Fonner record, considerably more will be put into the state's piggy bank.

Increased Interest

One need look no further than Fonner to note the increased interest in plucking a pound or two of silver down on some pony's nose.

Today's card closes out the 10th year of racing at Fonner Park and the number of racing dates has increased steadily since that opening day in 1954. And along with the added number of racing dates, there, of course, has been a steady increase in the money pushed through the little windows.

The opening session at Fonner in 1954 lasted only 13 racing days and only $1,040,814 was bet. As the season was increased—first to 18 days and gradually to the present 25—the mutuel handle began to climb—to $2 million, then $3 million and finally last year topping the $4 million mark for the first time.

Then this year came and the $4 million mutuel total was achieved on the 23rd day of racing Monday.

Records Fall

Attendance and betting records began falling right at the start at Fonner this year with the 4,925 who turned out for the opening day to bet $229,000 setting records in both divisions for a first day.

The old single day record of $271,519 set in 1962 lasted only 3 days into the 1963 season before being snowed under by a mutuel handle of $273,560 on the first Saturday of this season.

Two weeks later, on April 20, 6,694 racing enthusiasts showed up and brought plenty of money along—spending $299,386 of the filthy green stuff for a record that will last at least until next year—but don't bet on any more than that.

Next Stop—Ak-Sar-Ben

For those bettors who still have a few dollars left in the old sock, the next stop will be Ak-Sar-Ben which begins its 40-day season Friday.

And if Sunday's open house attendance of 8,150 is any indication, standing room may be at a premium at the large Ak-Sar-Ben track.

Louis Eilken, racing secretary and handicapper at the Omaha track, anticipates the greatest collection of Thoroughbreds in the history of Ak-Sar-Ben.

Some of the nation's top stables have been lured by the $1,211,000 in purses and the attraction of a minimum purse of $2,500 and a daily feature purse of at least $5,000.

The first weekend of activity at Ak-Sar-Ben offers the $10,000-added Beef State Handicap for 3-year-olds and up at 6 furlongs and the $10,000-added Ak-Sar-Ben Princess Handicap Saturday for 3-year-olds at 5½ furlongs.

Good-Bye Fonner. Hello Ak-Sar-Ben.

Red Sox Vault Into AL Lead; Giants 1st In NL

Ranew Double Dooms Buccos

. . . METS WIN AGAIN

By Associated Press

The Boston Red Sox beat Baltimore 5-1 and vaulted over the New York Yankees and Kansas City Athletics into first place in the American League Tuesday while San Francisco took the lead in the National.

Merritt Ranew doubled in the deciding run as the Chicago Cubs knocked Pittsburgh out of the National League lead 5-4 in the only afternoon game in either league. The Giants took over with a 5-2 triumph over Milwaukee at night.

Juan Marichal had a 4-hitter and got home run support from Felipe Alou, Ed Bailey and Jose Pagan in the Giants' 7th victory in their last 8 starts.

Los Angeles pounded out 13 hits in support of Sandy Koufax in the 11-1 victory over St. Louis that dropped the Cards to 3rd. It was the first start in two weeks for Koufax, who has been out with an ailing shoulder.

The New York Mets got good pitching from Al Jackson and homers from Charlie Neal and Frank Thomas in a 3-1 triumph over Philadelphia while Houston rallied for a 3-2 victory over Cincinnati on 8th inning, run-scoring singles by Bob Lillis and Rusty Staub.

Boston, which entered the night's activities in 3rd place, unloaded 13 hits, including a two-run homer by Lu Clinton. Earl Wilson beat Baltimore with a 3-hitter.

Chicago's John Buzhardt shut out Kansas City on 4 hits for the first 7 innings and singled in the winning run in a 2-1 edge that dropped the A's to second.

The New York Yankees dipped to 3rd when beaten 6-2 by Detroit. Tiger bonus rookie Bill Freehan had a two-run homer, a triple and a double, and now has 9 hits in his last 10 at-bats.

Cleveland broke through with 4 runs in the 11th inning of a rhubarb filled game at Washington and beat the Senators 7-3.

The Los Angeles Angels beat Minnesota 2-0 behind the 3-hit pitching of ex-Yankee Bob Turley, who struck out 9 and walked none.

. . . LINKS BLAST ROCKETS, 13-2

By CONDE SARGENT
Prep Sports Writer

A familiar name in high school baseball will return to the state tournament.

Lincoln High, 5 times winner of the big tourney, unloaded on Northeast, 13-2, Tuesday to win the Capital City Class A district.

The Links and 3 Omaha district winners will play in the state meet May 20-21 at Omaha's Municipal Stadium.

In its first state tourney action since joining an intercity Conference round-robin circuit in 1959, Lincoln High tripped Pius X in first round district play before belting the Rockets Tuesday.

The victory, abbreviated to 5 innings with the 10-run rule, avenged an earlier 15-5 loss to Northeast.

Lincoln High hurler Rich Schwabauer didn't pitch that earlier contest. He played the outfield. His perch on the mound makes a big difference in this Lincoln High team.

He 5-hit the Rockets with Stan Grell's home run the best hit of the day. It cleared the left-centerfield fence at Elks Field and one-hopped across Normal Blvd.

Mound chores weren't so smooth for NE hurlers Les Tyrrell and Jerry Motz, however.

The 6 men Tyrrell got out all went via strikeout but a 3-run homer over the Elks' Chinese wall in center by Mickey Zangari staked the Links to a 3-0 lead.

Following Grell's long shot, the roof came in on Northeast in the 3rd. Lincoln High scored 9 times as Motz replaced Tyrrell with 3 on and none out.

Key blows in the inning were:

—two-run single by centerfielder Alex Walters.

—duplicate single by Dennis Barber.

—and a grand slam homer by Schwabauer, his 4th circuit clout of the season.

The outcome left Northeast and Lincoln High on an even keel for the city championship in baseball. Their only loss in intra-city play was to each other.

Pesek-Gilbert Combo Beaten

. . . DECISION MEETS WITH DISAGREEMENT

A vehement protest by Jack Pesek and tag team partner Doug Gilbert went to no avail Tuesday night as Waldo Von Erich teamed with Duke Hoffman to gain an unpopular decision over the Pesek-Gilbert combo at Pershing Auditorium.

With the match standing at one fall each Gilbert and Hoffman collided in the center of the ring with both wrestlers going to the mat.

Von Erich then entered the ring and dragged Hoffman to his corner where a tag was made and Von Erich then pinned Gilbert.

Pesek and Gilbert protested that the tag was illegal, but the protests to referee Tom Novak went in vain.

In preliminary action Ernie Dusek whipped Bill Taylor, Bob Managoff defeated Pepe Gonzalez and Guy Mitchell bopped Bob Boyer.

Pesek announced the next Lincoln show would be held Memorial Day, May 30.

–RUSSIAN ROULETTE–

College Baseball Playoffs To Begin

Tucson, Ariz. (AP)—College baseball's version of Russian roulette begins this week.

That's what it amounts to as playoffs begin leading to Omaha and the annual NCAA championships starting June 10.

Kicking off the action Wednesday in a best-of-3 series are two Southeastern Conference teams, Mississippi (18-5) and Auburn (15-7). Mississippi won the Western Division title and Auburn defeated highly-rated Florida to win Eastern honors.

The Ole Miss-Auburn winner will step out of the frying pan and into the fire. Probably waiting in the District 3 playoff wings will be Wake Forest (21-6) of the Atlantic Coast Conference and West Virginia (19-1) of the Southern Conference, a pair of nationally rated teams.

The situation looks in the other districts:

District 1—Holy Cross (5-1) and Connecticut (9-5) look the best.

District 2—St. Johns of New York (17-3) and Ithaca (13-3) are the top contenders.

District 4—Western Michigan (13-1) of the Mid-American Conference is strong. Ohio State (19-8) looks like the Big 10's best. Among independents, Notre Dame (15-3) has a veteran team.

District 5—No. 1 ranked Missouri (16-4) appears to be tops.

District 6—Texas (15-4-1) and Texas Christian University (18-4) are battling for the Southwest Conference pennant.

District 7—Arizona (27-13) seems to be the best Western Athletic Conference bet. Colorado State College and Air Force Academy may figure in playoff plans.

District 8—No. 2 rated Oregon has rolled to an impressive 19-2 record. But before the district entry is chosen Los Angeles State (26-8), Pepperdine (21-5), UCLA (22-13) and USC (24-13-1) may become involved.

Jurisdiction Questioned In Border Fishing Feud

By United Press International

The South Dakota attorney general cannot invade Nebraska to take any action about the fishing rights at the Gavins Point Dam tailwaters, M. O. Steen, director of the Nebraska Game Commission, said Tuesday.

He made the statement while commenting on a letter received recently from Walter J. Fillmore, director of the South Dakota Department of Game, Fish and Parks.

Fillmore said, "In regards to the Gavins Point controversy, the matter has been turned over to our attorney general. We will have to abide by whatever action he takes."

The controversial fishing area is indisputably in Nebraska, Steen said, and the South Dakota attorney general would be without authority to take any action.

He added that the Nebraska Game Commission officers have had no difficulty with South Dakotans "and their law observance is exemplary." He said only one arrest has been made since the Nebraska Commission began requiring South Dakotans to have Nebraska fishing licenses before angling in the dam tailwaters.

In his letter Fillmore said:

"I presented your (Steen's) question to our commission relative to whether or not they wished to retain the old border agreement between South Dakota and Nebraska along the Missouri River with the exception of the Gavins Point Tailwaters.

"Our commission expressed themselves by saying that they had not broken the old agreement. In regards to the Gavins Point controversy, the matter has been turned over to our attorney general. We will have to abide by whatever action he takes."

One-Second Stop Provision Taken From Balk Rule

New York (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick and the two major league presidents amended the balk rule by eliminating the one-second stop for a pitcher Tuesday in the interests of uniformity.

National League umpires had called 96 balks in games through Monday, an all-time record. Only 9 had been called in the American. The contrast had reached the ridiculous stage.

Aware that the All-Star Game and World Series would present supreme problems if the differences were not settled, Warren Giles of the National League and Joe Cronin of the American League answered the call of Frick to a summit conference.

Get that old lawn mower off your hands before another summer leaves you open to more expense and trouble . . . and make money doing it. It's worth an extra $10.00 on a trade-in for the finest power mowers made.

The Toro Whirlwind 21 is the best self-powered rotary mower on the market. For one thing, unlike most rotaries, it's quiet. Toro's new exhaust muffling is the answer. And Toro's exclusive new S-Blade gives you a sharper, cleaner cutting action.

The best news of all: No Clumping! Toro's revolutionary "Wind-Tunnel"† design does it. Clippings are discharged swiftly and evenly. No ugly clumps of grass piling onto your lawn . . . killing your grass.

It has finger-tip controls and safe start, a powerful 3 H.P. engine and 6 easily adjusted cutting heights (½" to 3"). Trims up to within ⅜" of houses and trees. And with its grass and leaf bagging attachments, the Whirlwind 21 works for you 3 seasons out of the year. Besides cutting and bagging grass, it's fine for lawn cleanup in the spring and ends leaf raking in the fall. It's the best mower going for people who want a good, fast cutting job.

Make extra money on your old clunker. Bring it, with this $10 coupon, to your neighborhood Toro dealer. Start the summer with a lot of lawn mower—a Toro.

Jurisdiction Questioned In Border Fishing Feud

By United Press International

The South Dakota attorney general cannot invade Nebraska to take any action about the fishing rights at the Gavins Point Dam tailwaters, M. O. Steen, director of the Nebraska Game Commission, said Tuesday.

He made the statement while commenting on a letter received recently from Walter J. Fillmore, director of the South Dakota Department of Game, Fish and Parks.

Fillmore said, "in regards to the Gavins Point controversy, the matter has been turned over to our attorney general. We will have to abide by whatever action he takes."

The controversial fishing area is indisputably in Nebraska, Steen said, and the South Dakota attorney general would be without authority to take any action.

He added that the Nebraska Game Commission officers have had no difficulty with South Dakotans "and their law observance is exemplary." He said only one arrest has been made since the Nebraska Commission began requiring South Dakotans to have Nebraska fishing licenses before angling in the dam tailwaters.

In his letter Fillmore said:

"I presented your (Steen's) question to our commission relative to whether or not they wished to retain the old border agreement between South Dakota and Nebraska along the Missouri River with the exception of the Gavins Point Tailwaters.

"Our commission expressed themselves by saying that they had not broken the old agreement. In regards to the Gavins Point controversy, the matter has been turned over to our attorney general. We will have to abide by whatever action he takes."

One-Second Stop Provision Taken From Balk Rule

New York (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick and the two major league presidents amended the balk rule by eliminating the one-second stop for a pitcher Tuesday in the interests of uniformity.

National League umpires had called 96 balks in games through Monday, an all-time record. Only 9 had been called in the American. The contrast had reached the ridiculous stage.

Aware that the All-Star Game and World Series would present supreme problems if the differences were not settled, Warren Giles of the National League and Joe Cronin of the American League answered the call of Frick to a summit conference.

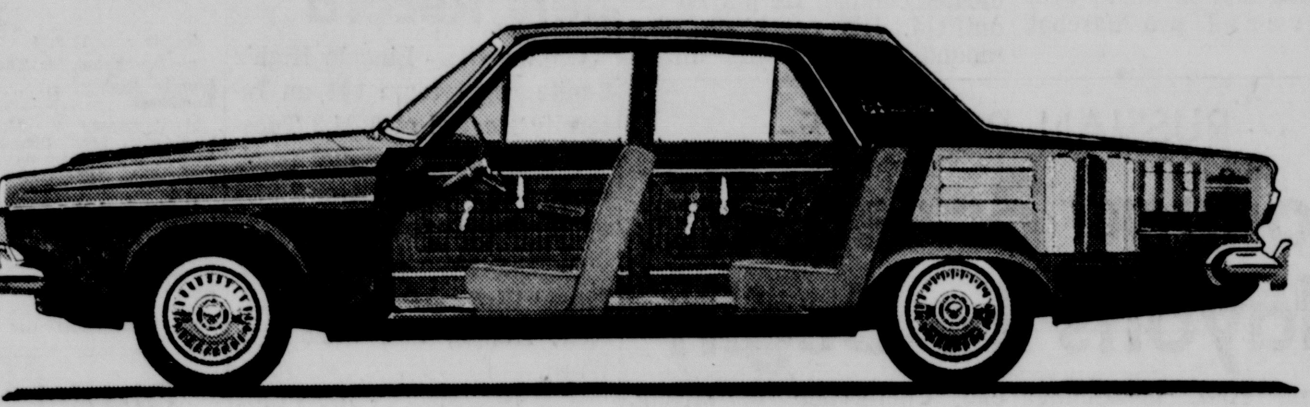
THE DEPENDABLES BUILT BY DODGE!



THIS IS THE BIG ROOMER...

THAT'S GOING AROUND!

Now a family of six can go compact in a big way. (So long sardine treatment.) Dart is a large economy size compact.

Lots of room for hips and hats, legs and luggage. More usable trunk space, in fact, than most full-size cars. Yet, Dart IS a compact.

Dart mileage, handling, and parkability are compact as can be. And, fortunately, so is the price. Few compacts cost less than Dart. Not one gives you so much for your money.

Nine nifty models. All are backed by a 5-year/50,000-mile warranty*.

*Your Dodge Dealer's Warranty against defects in material and workmanship on 1963 cars has been expanded to include parts replacement or repair without charge for required parts or labor for five years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first; on the engine block, head and internal parts; transmission case and internal parts (excluding manual clutch); torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints (excluding dust covers), rear axle and differential, and rear wheel bearings—provided the vehicle has been serviced at reasonable intervals according to the Dodge Certified Car Care schedules.

Get that old lawn mower off your hands before another summer leaves you open to more expense and trouble . . . and make money doing it. It's worth an extra $10.00 on a trade-in for the finest power mowers made.

The Toro Whirlwind 21 is the best self-powered rotary mower on the market. For one thing, unlike most rotaries, it's quiet. Toro's new exhaust muffling is the answer. And Toro's exclusive new S-Blade gives you a sharper, cleaner cutting action.

The best news of all: No Clumping! Toro's revolutionary "Wind-Tunnel"† design does it. Clippings are discharged swiftly and evenly. No ugly clumps of grass piling onto your lawn . . . killing your grass.

It has finger-tip controls and safe start, a powerful 3 H.P. engine and 6 easily adjusted cutting heights (½" to 3"). Trims up to within ⅜" of houses and trees. And with its grass and leaf bagging attachments, the Whirlwind 21 works for you 3 seasons out of the year. Besides cutting and bagging grass, it's fine for lawn cleanup in the spring and ends leaf raking in the fall. It's the best mower going for people who want a good, fast cutting job.

Make extra money on your old clunker. Bring it, with this $10 coupon, to your neighborhood Toro dealer. Start the summer with a lot of lawn mower—a Toro.

Brosnan At Home With Symphony Or In Bullpen

Pittsburgh (AP)—One sunny afternoon he charges angrily off the pitching mound, wildly waving his long arms and shouting profane invectives about an umpire's calls on his pitches.

Only the night before, however, he peacefully and thoughtfully watched "Sundays and Cybele," an artful French movie depicting the poignant relationship of a 30-year-old former pilot and a 12-year-old girl.

This is Jim Brosnan, an affable fellow who would be as much at home listening to the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra at staid Syria Mosque as he is playing before thousands of screaming baseball fans a resounding bassoon note away at Forbes Field.

This is Jim Brosnan, whose adriotly written words have attracted the book-buying public as effectively as his right-handed relief pitches have stymied opposing players.

If this were a television show, someone at this point might say, "Will the real Jim Brosnan please stand?" But it isn't a television show, and it all is the real Jim Brosnan, the seemingly paradoxical hurler traded Sunday by Cincinnati to the Chicago White Sox.

We say seemingly paradoxical because Brosnan disagrees that the battling baseball player and the erudite 33-year-old writer are incongruous.

"Both sides are compatible," he said recently. "No man should be one-sided. It's not a genuine paradox that a man can do both. They are two separate facets."

The spectacled 9-year National League veteran had a simple explanation for his bitter outburst in a recent nationally televised game against the Pirates. Rejecting any notion that his action was out of character, the father of 3 said:

"I make my living throwing balls over the plate. He (umpire Doug Harvey) missed the pitch; he blew it. It was as perfect a pitch as I've ever thrown."

But even while he was embroiled in the dispute, Brosnan was in complete control of himself.

"I was looking at myself doing it," he explained. "It's as if I wasn't involved."

At the same time he has become known as one of the majors' best relief pitchers, the 6-foot-4, 214-pound Brosnan has written two best-selling books on his baseball experiences, "The Long Season" and "Pennant Race."

His success as an author, though, led to "censureship" while he was with the Cincinnati club. In general, under the terms of his Cincinnati baseball contract, he was not permitted to write anything detrimental to the game during the season.

Still, he was working on a novel, a baseball tale, when the Reds traded him. In fact, Brosnan is so serious about his writing that he plans to retire from baseball after the 1964 season and earn his living as an author.

Lest his extra-curricular cultural activities — such as reading "Lady Chatterly's Lover" in the bullpen —paint a misleading portrait, the tobacco-chewing Brosnan is quick to dispell the idea that he is an intellectual.

"I'm not an intellectual," he said. "I don't know any ball players who are. I know just one intellectual, and he says he's not."

Brosnan also pointed out that although he enjoys good concerts and good art movies, he don't prefer them to playing baseball.

"That's a passive occupation," he said, referring to going to concerts. "Playing in a game is active. I prefer doing something that is active."

"I like to play baseball," he explained. "I like my work. It's good exercise."

Chateaugay Eyed As Horse To Beat Triple Crown Jinx

. . . KENTUCKY DERBY WINNER NOT BEING OVERLOOKED AS THREAT

BY STEVE SNIDER

New York (UPI) — The second-guessers insist Chateaugay can beat the Triple Crown "jinx."

They overlooked him in the Kentucky Derby but that one is in the bag so Chateaugay is being talked up as a good bet to win the upcoming Preakness and later Belmont Stakes for the first Triple Crown sweep in 15 years.

If some "big horse" doesn't win the triple soon, the racing crowd may forget what it's all about. For, since Citation last collared those 3 famous races for 3-year-olds in 1948, the Triple Crown is something to talk about but not to witness.

The "hex" has taken over. Seven horses since Citation's year have won two of the 3 big races. Two of the 7 won the Derby and Preakness,—then failed in the mile and a half Belmont.

Last year's Derby record setter, Decidedly, won only that first leg. He finished 8th in a field of 11 in the Preakness (won by Greek Money) and 4th in a field of 8 as Jaipur won the Belmont.

The pitch on Chateaugay, owned by president John Galbreath of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is simple but not entirely convincing.

Trainer Jimmy Conway knew he had a lot of horse but didn't expect Chateaugay to hit the top until late summer. Now the colt has arrived ahead of schedule, Jimmy sees no reason Chateaugay can't keep rolling — and he may be right.

The Preakness on May 18 will have to tell the hardest part of the story. Chateaugay again will have to contend with Rex Ellsworth's Candy Spots and Harry Guggenheim's Never Bend, the glamor boys until Chateaugay led 'em home at Louisville. The Preakness distance also is a bit shorter at a mile and 3-16ths compared to the Derby's mile and a quarter.

But if Chateaugay can run over those other favorities in the Preakness, he may well shatter the Triple Crown jinx by winning the Belmont which will be run at Aqueduct this year. Belmont has been closed as unsafe to spectators.

Since Sir Barton scored the first triple in 1919, only 7 others have matched the feat—Gallant Fox (1930), Omaha (1935), War Admiral (1937), Whirlaway (1941), Count Fleet (1943), Assault (1946) and Citation (1948).

But there have been 17 "near misses" in which one horse won two of the 3 jewels in the crown and lately the hex has been showing stronger than ever. Even such great ones as Native Dancer (1953) and Nashua (1955) couldn't achieve the sweep.

Here's the record of the near misses since Citation in '48:

Capot, second in the 1949 Derby, went on to win the other two. Middleground, 1950 winner at Louisville, finished second in the Preakness but bounced back to win the Belmont. Native Dancer and Nashua both were upset in the Derby but won the remaining two.

Needles blew the Preakness in 1956. Tim Tam won the Derby and Preakness in 1958 but pulled a sesamoid muscle in the Belmont and finished second to Cavan. Carry Back won the first two in '61 but finished 7th to Sherluck in the Belmont and picked up a small injury along the way that may or may not have affected his racing.

At this point: Enter Chateaugay . . .

Spearfishing Growing Fast

Spearfishing, a fast growing sport in NEBRASKAland, is expected to provide many hours of recreation for sportsmen of the state this summer.

Waters open to spearfishing include McConaughy Reservoir, Lake Ogallala, Lake Minatare, Box Butte Reservoir, Lewis and Clark Lake, Harlan County Reservoir, and privately-owned lakes with permission of the lake owner, the Game Commission reports.

Only these non-game fish can be taken by spearing, buffalo, carp, gar, quillback, carpsucker, sucker, and shad. There are no size or bag and possession limits.

Some are like boxes.

Nobody really notices Volkswagens any more.

They're so well known, they sort of blend in with the scenery.

It doesn't matter what the scenery is, either. You can buy a VW in any one of 633 cities in the country. (Or in any one of 136 countries in the world.)

And that takes in lots of scenery. Deserts. Mountains. Hot places. Cold places.

Volkswagens thrive.

Hot and cold just aren't important. The VW engine is air-cooled. It doesn't use any water, so it can't freeze up or boil over.

And having the engine in the back makes all the difference when it comes to mud and sand and snow.

The weight is over the power wheels and so the traction is terrific.

VWs also get along so well wherever they are because the VW people make sure that their service is as good in Toledo as it is in Tasmania.

The only reason you can't buy a VW at the North Pole is that Volkswagen won't sell you one. (No service around the corner.)

Brosnan At Home With Symphony Or In Bullpen

Pittsburgh (AP)—One sunny afternoon he charges angily off the pitching mound, wildly waving his long arms and shouting profane invectives about an umpire's calls on his pitches.

Only the night before, however, he peacefully and thoughtfully watched "Sundays and Cybele," an artful French movie depicting the poignant relationship of a 30-year-old former pilot and a 12-year-old girl.

This is Jim Brosnan, an affable fellow who would be as much at home listening to the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra at staid Syria Mosque as he is playing before thousands of screaming baseball fans a resounding bassoon note away at Forbes Field.

This is Jim Brosnan, whose adriotly written words have attracted the book-buying public as effectively as his right-handed relief pitches have stymied opposing players.

If this were a television show, someone at this point might say, "Will the real Jim Brosnan please stand?" But it isn't a television show, and it all is the real Jim Brosnan, the seemingly paradoxical hurler traded Sunday by Cincinnati to the Chicago White Sox.

We say seemingly paradoxical because Brosnan disagrees that the battling baseball player and the erudite 33-year-old writer are incongruous.

"Both sides are compatible," he said recently. "No man should be one-sided. It's not a genuine paradox that a man can do both. They are two separate facets."

The spectacled 9-year National League veteran had a simple explanation for his bitter outburst in a recent nationally televised game against the Pirates. Rejecting any notion that his action was out of character, the father of 3 said:

"I make my living throwing balls over the plate. He (umpire Doug Harvey) missed the pitch; he blew it. It was as perfect a pitch as I've ever thrown."

But even while he was embroiled in the dispute, Brosnan was in complete control of himself.

"I was looking at myself doing it," he explained. "It's as if I wasn't involved."

At the same time he has become known as one of the majors' best relief pitchers, the 6-foot-4, 214-pound Brosnan has written two best-selling books on his baseball experiences, "The Long Season" and "Pennant Race."

His success as an author, though, led to "censureship" while he was with the Cincinnati club. In general, under the terms of his Cincinnati baseball contract, he was not permitted to write anything detrimental to the game during the season.

Still, he was working on a novel, a baseball tale, when the Reds traded him. In fact, Brosnan is so serious about his writing that he plans to retire from baseball after the 1964 season and earn his living as an author.

Lest his extra-curricular cultural activities — such as reading "Lady Chatterly's Lover" in the bullpen —paint a misleading portrait, the tobacco-chewing Brosnan is quick to dispell the idea that he is an intellectual.

"I'm not an intellectual," he said. "I don't know any ball players who are. I know just one intellectual, and he says he's not."

Brosnan also pointed out that although he enjoys good concerts and good art movies, he don't prefer them to playing baseball.

"That's a passive occupation," he said, referring to going to concerts. "Playing in a game is active. I prefer doing something that is active."

"I like to play baseball," he explained. "I like my work. It's good exercise."

Host Of Track Marks May Fall In MU Dual

. . . HUSKERS, TIGERS MEET SATURDAY

It's been a long time since Nebraska and Missouri have met in a dual track meet—and track performances have improved so much in the interim, a host of records could topple Saturday at Memorial Stadium in the cinder portion of All Sports Day

The last time out—May 8, 1954, at Columbia—The Tigers buried the Cornhuskers, 91-40

Saturday's dual, which starts with field events at 1 p m. and running events at 1.30, matches the one-two finishers in the Big 8 Conference indoor championships at Kansas City in March

Nebraska, indoor champion, will be trying to bounce back from a shocker at Colorado The fired up Buffs spiked the Cornhuskers 83½ 60, with Air Force tallying 37½ in the triangular

But there was some sensational work turned in by the Scarlets, with Ray Knaub burning a 09 5 century and Gil Gebo roaring through a 47 6 quarter

Both will be threats to records in the NU-Tiger dual on All Sports Day The late Husker great Roland Locke holds the 100-yard mark with a 09 6, dating back to 1926. The 440-yard record in 48 3 set by Red Littler of Nebraska in 1941 and equalled by Bob Schuster of Missouri

Other records in jeopardy are the 880 (1 56), mile run (4 18 8), high hurdles (14 6) mile relay (3 19 7), high jump (6 4½) discus (153 2⅟) pole vault (13-7) and shot put (52 4⅛)

Greg Pelster of Missouri, gold medal winner in the 600 and 880 yard events in the indoor, is a solid threat to pop the 880 He won indoors with 1 55 1 Nebraska's high jumping duo of Harry Krebs and Jack Cramer are in the 6 6 class Ross Tunnel of Missouri got second in the indoor with a 6 6¾ mark

Tiger Bob Neuman has consistently tossed the shot further than the record and MU's Bill Younger sailed over 14 4 at Kansas City in the pole vault

Husker Fred Wilke and Tiger Jim Streeby are topnotch hurdlers who can dip under 14 6 At Colorado, Wilke pushed Buff Jim Miller to a blistering 14 2 clocking

Three records are a cinch to be established Making their debut on the Husker-Tiger dual program will be the 330-yard intermediate hurdles, the triple jump and the 440 yard relay

NU s Victor Brooks was just edged out of a blue ribbon at Colorado by Leander Durley, who got 47 10¾ on his first attempt at the hop step and jump Brooks started at 45 feet and wound up with 47 9

Rift Grows In College World Series

Omaha (UPI) — The general chairman of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's (NCAA) College World Series has written officials of the NCAA at Kansas City to protest the suspension of the University of Omaha

Ed Pettis of Omaha said he feels the school was given a "raw deal" He indicated sponsorship of the national baseball championships in Omaha after this year was in doubt

It was the first revelation of the growing gap between the NCAA and Omaha backers of the collegiate series The NCAA is allowing the Omaha University to continue sponsoring the tournament despite the suspension

Omaha University was placed on indefinite suspension for taking part in the All Sports Bowl football game at Oklahoma City last December The event had the blessing of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) and other groups but not of the NCAA

Pettis indicated he was surprised the NCAA would approve Omaha's sponsorship of the series while continuing the suspension

It's been a long time since Nebraska and Missouri have met in a dual track meet—and track performances have improved so much in the interim, a host of records could topple Saturday at Memorial Stadium in the cinder portion of All Sports Day.

The last time out—May 8, 1954, at Columbia—The Tigers buried the Cornhuskers, 91-40.

Saturday's dual, which starts with field events at 1 p.m. and running events at 1:30, matches the one-two finishers in the Big 8 Conference indoor championships at Kansas City in March.

Nebraska, indoor champion, will be trying to bounce back from a shocker at Colorado. The fired up Buffs spiked the Cornhuskers 83½-60, with Air Force tallying 37½ in the triangular.

But there was some sensational work turned in by the Scarlets, with Ray Knaub burning a :09.5 century and Gil Gebo roaring through a :47.6 quarter.

Both will be threats to records in the NU-Tiger dual on All Sports Day. The late Husker great Roland Locke holds the 100-yard mark with a :09.6, dating back to 1926. The 440-yard record in :48.3 set by Red Littler of Nebraska in 1941 and equalled by Bob Schuster of Missouri.

Other records in jeopardy are the 880 (1:56), mile run (4:18.8), high hurdles (:14:6) mile relay (3:19.7), high jump (6-4½) discus (153-2¼) pole vault (13-7) and shot put (52-4⅞).

Greg Pelster of Missouri, gold medal winner in the 600 and 880-yard events in the indoor, is a solid threat to pop the 880. He won indoors with 1:55.1. Nebraska's high jumping duo of Harry Krebs and Jack Cramer are in the 6-6 class. Ross Tunnel of Missouri got second in the indoor with a 6-6¾ mark.

Tiger Bob Neuman has consistently tossed the shot further than the record and MU's Bill Younger sailed over 14-4 at Kansas City in the pole vault.

Husker Fred Wilke and Tiger Jim Streeby are topnotch hurdlers who can dip under :14.6. At Colorado, Wilke pushed Buff Jim Miller to a blistering :14.2 clocking.

Three records are a cinch to be established. Making their debut on the Husker-Tiger dual program will be the 330-yard intermediate hurdles, the triple jump and the 440-yard relay.

NU's Victor Brooks was just edged out of a blue ribbon at Colorado by Leander Durley, who got 47-10¾ on his first attempt at the hop, step and jump. Brooks started at 45 feet and wound up with 47-9.

Rift Grows In College World Series

Omaha (UPI) — The general chairman of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's (NCAA) College World Series has written officials of the NCAA at Kansas City to protest the suspension of the University of Omaha.

Ed Pettis of Omaha said he feels the school was given a "raw deal." He indicated sponsorship of the national baseball championships in Omaha after this year was in doubt.

It was the first revelation of the growing gap between the NCAA and Omaha backers of the collegiate series. The NCAA is allowing the Omaha University to continue sponsoring the tournament despite the suspension.

Omaha University was placed on indefinite suepension for taking part in the All-Sports Bowl football game at Oklahoma City last December. The event had the blessing of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) and other groups, but not of the NCAA.

Pettis indicated he was surprised the NCAA would approve Omaha's sponsorship of the series while continuing the suspension.

House Votes To Clamp New Bars On Foreign Junketing

Washington (AP) — The House voted Tuesday to clamp new restrictions on congressional junketing, but the move may die in the Senate

By a vote of 384 to 2, the House approved and sent to the Senate legislation that would limit the amount of U S or foreign currencies members of Congress and their employes can spend on foreign trips

It would require publication of expense accounts

Debate was brief, but Rep Ross Bass, D Tenn, echoed the feelings of some members with a contention there should not be a blanket restriction He said those who abuse their travel privileges should be singled out and made to refund excessive charges

To Consider

The Senate Rules Committee has promised prompt and careful consideration of the bill But the Senate is not generally considered to view it with favor

The measure is at least partly an outgrowth of criticism of a trip to Europe last year by Rep Adam Clayton Powell, D-N Y, with two women staff aides

The legislation would require annual publication of expense accounts of congressional foreign travelers, advance authorization for travel, and spending ceilings in line with those imposed on officials and employes of other branches of the government They also would put a curb on junketing by lame ducks, a practice that has grown in recent years A lame duck is a person serving out the remainder of his term after failing to win re election

Require Report

Current regulations require annual reporting of junketing expenses, but the regulations are not enforceable and details frequently are not available

The new legislation originated in the House Administration Committee, which called it "a realistic remedy" for defects in existing regulations.

Committee Chairman Omar Burleson, D Tex, told the House it is his intention to publish in the congressional record the itemized expense accounts of travelers and make available to the public vouchers supporting the claims

Itemization

To check more thoroughly on spending of foreign currencies, the legislation would require government agencies to file with Congress annually an itemization of how much such currency was furnished to Congress These currencies, known as counterpart funds, are generated by the foreign-aid program

The two negative votes in the House were cast by Reps Ronald Cameron D Calif, and Roland V Libonati, D Ill

6% Corn Crop Planted; Panhandle Wheat Dry

Rain during the past week and over the weekend in the eastern part of the state materially helped all growing crops, state federal statisticians said in their weekly crop report.

Field work was slowed in the areas receiving rain but approximately 6% of the state's corn acreage was planted by the close of the week. This was well ahead of normal.

A small acreage of sorghum had been planted and as soon as fields become dry, planting will be in full swing.

Winter wheat responded to the moisture in the eastern and southern areas but in the southwest and Panhandle the crop shows some signs of deterioration and a general rain is needed to relive dry soil conditions.

Early varieties of wheat have reached the boot stage in some southeast and eastern counties

Oats and barley have made fair growth, although some fields are weedy. Some rye and barley fields have headed in the southwest.

Just about all of the sugar beets that were severely damaged by frost have been replanted. Moisture is needed for good germination.

Field preparation for planting drybeans and late potatoes has progressed rapidly in the west.

Dehydration plants have started operations on the first cutting of alfalfa. Tonnage is somewhat light but quality of the crop is good

Most of the range area needs additional moisture. In the eastern area pasture feeds have been slow to develop but now are furnishing excellent feed.

Precipitation received throughout Nebraska during the past week included·

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Sweepstakes Not Ideal Source of Revenue

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

The legalization of a sweepstake lottery in New Hampshire is an escapist effort to develop a painless source of public revenues.

Rukeyser

However much moralists may decry the evils of gambling, the New England state undertakes to take the curse off the experiment by pledging the net proceeds for support of the schools.

This angle of the situation should be explored. For it was about 6 decades ago when the late Dr. E. R. A. Seligman and other farseeing economists warned at the first session of the National Tax Association that the educational system was handicapped by the fact that its financing was tied to a static and somewhat outmoded form of taxation—the general property tax

Instead of broadening the tax base through addition of modern taxes, the country has drifted toward supplementation of local school district taxes with "federal aid" and "state aid" to the schools. But this was merely a device for relying on other levels of government which had access to more productive sources of taxation. It would have been more in keeping with the preservation of the three levels of government, national, state and local, to have worked out the problem on a strictly fiscal basis.

A sensible procedure would be to effectuate under the constitution a compact between the Federal Government and the states whereby a single agency would collect the taxes, and redistribute the proceeds, in accordance with a pre-agreed formula, among the Federal Government, the states and the localities, including school districts. Such an approach would preserve our form of government, and would discourage waste based on the illusion that money from Washington or from the state capital was windfall, or free, money.

Since school districts and other subdivisions are creatures of the state, their taxing power is conditioned by state statutes. When I served on the Board of Education at New Rochelle, N.Y., which, like other school districts from coast to coast, is dependent on taxes on local real estate, I took the view that, before the Board petitioned the legislature for additional taxing power, it had an obligation to explore avenues already open.

Added Tax

In New York, besides the real estate tax, school boards are permitted to levy a minor, supplementary tax on the users of public utility services. When a public tax hearing was held, the lobby for the public utility companies affected bore down heavily on the School Board, and made it appear that any one who advocated such a tax was an enemy of society. In my opinion, it would have been sounder corporate public relations to have expressed interest in the objective of broadening the tax base for supporting education, and to have offered technical aid of its accounting and legal staff to help the board formulate a program.

It is a cliche these days that education should be upgraded, and that more public funds should be made available to the school system. With the taxpayer already overburdened, one sensible approach is to release more funds to the schools through eliminating waste in other branches of local government. For example, the multiplicity of counties in this jet age is an anachronism; consolidation would help to cut costs.

For the first time since Congress acted against lotteries in 1894, New Hampshire is undertaking this new experiment. It remains to be seen whether out of state money can come in without violating the federal statute. Sweepstake tickets would be sold at the two race tracks just over the Massachusetts line and at the state liquor stores.

It can be questioned whether it is prudent to seek a "painless" tax. Broadly speaking, if the public is unaware of its contribution to the cost of government, it may become more tolerant of political waste and extravagance.

An impost on gambling has been described as "a tax on fools." But common sense must distinguish between the behavior of a compulsive gambler, who may impair family wellbeing, and the person who takes an occasional harmless flier. Irrespective of the technicalities of the statutes, no great harm is done in friendly games of bridge, canasta and poker, provided the stakes are so small that no one is really hurt.

Lotteries Common

But, in fairness, more is involved in the New Hampshire sweepstake innovation. Lotteries are common in the Old World and in Latin America. The potential harm is not necessarily limited to public morals; there are also economic considerations Unlike the Latin American emphasis on "manana", the American economic system stresses the philosophy that we as individuals and families can get more and better things by working productively. Such motivation could, to a degree, be diluted by any tendency to downgrade thrift and industry on the specious hope that lightning might strike when the sweepstake races are held.

With no state sales or income tax, New Hampshire has not exhausted the inventory of imposts successfully used in other communities. Although Novada, in respect for federal law, has staid away from lotteries, the state and its localities have lived on the fruits of gambling houses and one arm bandit slot machines.

While a first rule of the science of taxation is to "pluck the goose with a minimum of squawking", escapist taxation, such as levies on gambling, including sweepstakes, have the disadvantage of encouraging suckers to think that they are getting something for nothing from government

Rain during the past week and over the weekend in the eastern part of the state materially helped all growing crops, state federal statisticians said in their weekly crop report.

Field work was slowed in the areas receiving rain but approximately 6% of the state's corn acreage was planted by the close of the week. This was weil ahead of normal.

A small acreage of sorghum had been planted and as soon as fields become dry, planting will be in full swing.

Winter wheat responded to the moisture in the eastern and southern areas but in the southwest and Panhandle the crop shows some signs of deterioration and a general rain is needed to relive dry soil conditions.

Early varieties of wheat have reached the boot stage in some southeast and eastern counties.

Oats and barley have made fair growth, although some fields are weedy. Some rye and barley fields have headed in the southwest.

Just about all of the sugar beets that were severely damaged by frost have been replanted. Moisture is needed for good germination.

Field preparation for planting drybeans and late potatoes has progressed rapidly in the west.

Dehydration plants have started operations on the first cutting of alfalfa. Tonnage is somewhat light but quality of the crop is good.

Most of the range area needs additional moisture. In the eastern area pasture feeds have been slow to develop but now are furnishing excellent feed.

Precipitation received throughout Nebraska during the past week included:

	EAST
Grand Island	.06	Norfolk	.69
Lincoln	1.02	Omaha	1.26
	CENTRAL
Burwell	.16	North Platte	.06
	WEST
Chadron	.07	Scottsbluff	.18
Imperial	.29	Sidney	.26

Moisture via sections since the beginning of the growing season, April 1, as compared to longtime averages follows:

Northwest—1.87 inches (1963); 2.13 inches (normal).
North Central—2.18; 2.38.

GM Paces Motors To Brisk Gain

New York (AP)—General Motors paced Big Three motors to a brisk advance, but the rest of the stock market proved reluctant and prices closed mixed Tuesday. Trading was moderate.

GM sounded a note of confidence late in the preceding day when it declared a 50-cent special dividend in addition to its 50 cent regular quarterly payout.

Tuesday it advanced 1⅛ to a historic high of 71⅝. Its volume of 81,000 shares made it third most active stock.

Chrysler rose 1½ and Ford ⅛ while American Motors and Studebaker were unchanged.

Of 1,324 issues traded gainers outnumbered losers 546 to 505. Highs for the year totaled 64 and lows 24.

Volume was 4.15 million shares compared with 4.1 million Monday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped .4 to 269.5 with industrials off .7, rails up .1, and utilities off .2.

Among the 15 most active issues, 10 advanced, 4 declined and Sperry Rand was unchanged.

American Photocopy was the most active stock, up 1⅛ at 11⅝ on 166,300 shares following news that the firm had an agreement with Xerox to manufacture some of its equipment. Xerox advanced 2⅝.

Prices were irregular on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds were unevenly higher.

All Grains Close Firm To Strong

Chicago (AP) — Buying became general in active late grain futures dealings Tuesday and all commodities finished firm to strong on the Board of Trade.

Soybeans led advances with gains of a cent or more on all contracts. Feed grains and new crop wheat moved up fractions and May wheat 1½ cents.

Brokers said exporters were active buyers of soybeans at times probably to hedge covering sales of about 1.7 million bushels to Holland and Denmark.

Scattered commercial support and a moderate speculative demand firmed prices elsewhere.

Wheat closed ⅛-1½ cents a bushel higher, May $2.09⅞-10; corn ⅛-⅜ higher, May $1.19⅞-20; oats ⅛-⅝ higher, May 69¼ cents; rye ⅝-1⅛ higher, May $1.28⅞-¼; soybeans 1-1⅛ higher, May $2.61⅞-62.

Youth Will Face Delinquency Count In Death

Omaha (AP)—Deputy County Attorney Kenneth Weiner said that a delinquency charge will be filed in Juvenile Court against Michael Roy Zenchuk, 16, of Omaha, who fatally shot his father Saturday. Before the petition is filed, Weiner said, the boy will be examined by a psychiatrist.

The father, George G. Zenchuk, 42, died about 8 hours after he was shot with a 22 caliber rifle after an argument over a pair of shoes. The youth has been placed in the custody of his mother pending further action in Juvenile Court.

Morrison Hopes Legislature Not Racially Biased

Gov. Frank Morrison said Tuesday he hopes the Legislature's killing of a Fair Employment Practices Act is not "interpreted as the Legislature favoring racial discrimination."

LB347, introduced by Negro Sen. Edward Danner of Omaha, was axed 29-12 Monday.

Morrison said he hopes the Legislature will adopt a resolution condemning discrimination. But, he added, he does not know of any senator planning on introducing such a resolution.

"America's position in today's world community cannot be morally impaired by failure to recognize equal rights of all American citizens regardless of their race, color or creed," Morrison said.

The governor also noted he has appointed a human Rights Commission to seek out areas of discrimination and implement programs for its elimination.

"I hope," Morrison said, "this commission can work in mutual accord with the Legislature."

GM Paces Motors To Brisk Gain

New York (AP)—General Motors paced Big Three motors to a brisk advance, but the rest of the stock market proved reluctant and prices closed mixed Tuesday. Trading was moderate.

GM sounded a note of confidence late in the preceding day when it declared a 50-cent special dividend in addition to its 50-cent regular quarterly payout.

Tuesday it advanced 1⅛ to a historic high of 71⅛. Its volume of 81,000 shares made it third most active stock.

Chrysler rose 1½ and Ford ½ while American Motors and Studebaker were unchanged.

Of 1,322 issues traded, gainers outnumbered losers 540 to 505. Highs for the year totaled 64 and lows 24.

Volume was 4.15 million shares compared with 4.1 million Monday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped .4 to 269.5 with industrials off .7, rails up .1, and utilities off .2.

Among the 15 most active issues, 10 advanced, 4 declined and Sperry Rand was unchanged.

American Photocopy was the most active stock, up 1¼ at 11⅝ on 166,300 shares following news that the firm had an agreement with Xerox to manufacture some of its equipment. Xerox advanced 2¼.

Prices were irregular on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds were unevenly higher.

All Grains Close Firm To Strong

Chicago (AP) — Buying became general in active late grain futures dealings Tuesday and all commodities finished firm to strong on the Board of Trade.

Soybeans led advances with gains of a cent or more on all contracts. Feed grains and new crop wheat moved up fractions and May wheat 1½ cents.

Brokers said exporters were active buyers of soybeans at times, probably toward covering sales of about 1.7 million bushels to Holland and Denmark.

Scattered commercial support and a moderate speculative demand firmed prices elsewhere.

Wheat closed ⅛-1½ cents a bushel higher, May $2.09⅞-10; corn ⅜-⅝ higher, May $1.19⅞-20; oats ⅛-⅝ higher, May 69½ cents; rye ⅜-1⅛ higher, May $1.28¾-¼; soybeans 1-1¾ higher, May $2.61-⅞-62.

Youth Will Face Delinquency Count In Death

Omaha (AP)—Deputy County Attorney Kenneth Weiner said that a delinquency charge will be filed in Juvenile Court against Michael Roy Zenchuk, 16, of Omaha, who fatally shot his father Saturday. Before the petition is filed, Weiner said, the boy will be examined by a psychiatrist.

The father, George G. Zenchuk, 42, died about 8 hours after he was shot with a .22 caliber rifle after an argument over a pair of shoes. The youth has been placed in the custody of his mother pending further action in Juvenile Court.

Morrison Hopes Legislature Not Racially Biased

Gov. Frank Morrison said Tuesday he hopes the Legislature's killing of a Fair Employment Practices Act is not "interpreted as the Legislature favoring racial discrimination."

LB347, introduced by Negro Sen. Edward Danner of Omaha, was axed 29-12 Monday.

Morrison said he hopes the Legislature will adopt a resolution condemning discrimination. But, he added, he does not know of any senator planning on introducing such a resolution.

"America's position in today's world community cannot be morally impaired by failure to recognize equal rights of all American citizens, regardless of their race, color or creed," Morrison said.

The governor also noted he has appointed a human Rights Commission to seek out areas of discrimination and implement programs for its elimination.

"I hope," Morrison said, "this commission can work in mutual accord with the Legislature."

State Sunday Closing Bill Stays Stuck In Health Committee

A bill proposing a Sunday closing law for Nebraska remained stuck in the Public Health Committee Tuesday after some discussion of proposed amendments.

One of the suggestions received by the committee at the hearing on the proposal was that retail stores, as specified, be forced to close on either Saturday or Sunday.

One of the largest crowds of the session packed the West Senate chamber when the committee took testimony for and against the measure.

In other action the committee killed one bill and advanced two others. That left the Sunday closing bill the only one left in committee.

Axed 4-0 was LB720 which proposed to grant eminent domain power to private non-profit hospital, cultural, educational and charitable corporations.

Advanced 5-0 was LB779 which provides that self-propelled invalid chairs shall be excluded from the definition of motor vehicles.

This bill stemmed from an incident in which a man, who had lost his legs in a farm machinery accident, was once arrested for not having a driver's license.

Sent to the floor on a 5-2 vote after being amended was LB712.

One amendment revised the original bill so that it would continue to be unlawful to drive or be in actual physical control of any motor vehicle if the driver had .15 of 1% alcohol in his blood. The bill had proposed lowering this figure to .10 of 1%.

Under another change, a person convicted would be subject to imprisonment in the county jail for two to 7 days, or a fine of $50 to $100 or both the fine and imprisonment.

Under the bill, the Department of Motor Vehicles would suspend for 90 days the driving privilege of any person upon a first conviction, and upon a second or subsequent conviction would revoke the license for 6 months.

After revocation following a second or subsequent conviction, the driving privilege could not be reinstated until the offender gave proof of ability to respond in damages.

School Reorganization Bill Advanced

A controversial school reorganization bill was advanced on a 4-2 count by the Education Committee Tuesday, but not until it was shorn of a feature which drew the most objections at its public hearing.

LB500 originally called for the State Reorganization Committee to draw a comprehensive redistricting plan for any county which failed to submit an acceptable one by Jan. 1, 1966. It was this provision that was deleted.

The measure, as amended, provides that the initial new school board of any consolidated district shall be appointed on a ward basis. In addition, the bill strives to guarantee the permanence of rural elementary attendance units.

The committee also sent out a pair of teacher retirement measures.

LB535, introduced by Sen. Fern Hubbard Orme, would increase from $1.50 to $2 the amount of state retirement payments for each year of teaching service up to 40 years. It would cost the state an estimated $340,000 annually.

The other bill, LB351, deals wholly with refinements in the Omaha teacher retirement program.

State Sunday Closing Bill Stays Stuck In Health Committee

A bill proposing a Sunday closing law for Nebraska remained stuck in the Public Health Committee Tuesday after some discussion of proposed amendments.

One of the suggestions received by the committee at the hearing on the proposal was that retail stores, as specified, be forced to close on either Saturday or Sunday.

Committee members Tuesday decided they needed a little more time to consider the controversial bill.

One of the largest crowds of the session packed the West Senate chamber when the committee took testimony for and against the measure.

In other action the committee killed one bill and advanced two others. That left the Sunday closing bill the only one left in committee.

Axed 4-0 was LB720 which proposed to grant eminent domain power to private non-profit hospital, cultural, educational and charitable corporations.

Advanced 5-0 was LB779, which provides that self-propelled invalid chairs shall be excluded from the definition of motor vehicles.

This bill stemmed from an incident in which a man, who had lost his legs in a farm machinery accident, was once arrested for not having a driver's license.

Sent to the floor on a 5-2 vote after being amended was LB712.

One amendment revised the original bill so that it would continue to be unlawful to drive or be in actual physical control of any motor vehicle if the driver had .15 of 1 alcohol in his blood. The bill had proposed lowering this figure to .10 of 1%.

Under another change, a person convicted would be subject to imprisonment in the county jail for two to 7 days, or a fine of $50 to $100 or both the fine and imprisonment.

Under the bill, the Department of Motor Vehicles would suspend for 90 days the driving privilege of any person upon a first conviction, and upon a second or subsequent conviction would revoke the license for 6 months.

After revocation following a second or subsequent conviction, the driving privilege could not be reinstated until the offender gave proof of ability to respond in damages.

School Reorganization Bill Advanced

A controversial school reorganization bill was advanced on a 4-2 count by the Education Committee Tuesday, but not until it was shorn of a feature which drew the most objections at its public hearing.

LB500 originally called for the State Reorganization Committee to draw a comprehensive redistricting plan for any county which failed to submit an acceptable one by Jan. 1, 1966. It was this provision that was deleted.

The measure, as amended, provides that the initial new school board of any consolidated district shall be appointed on a ward basis. In addition, the bill strives to guarantee the permanence of rural elementary attendance units.

The committee also sent out a pair of teacher retirement measures.

LB535, introduced by Sen. Fern Hubbard Orme, would increase from $1.50 to $2 the amount of state retirement payments for each year of teaching service up to 40 years. It would cost the state an estimated $340,000 annually.

The other bill, LB351, deals wholly with refinements in the Omaha teacher retirement program.
